Cox reportedly rebuffed in try to end hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's special prosecutor in the Watergate case, Archibald Cox, sought and failed this week to get the Senate's hearings on the scandal called off, it was reported today.

Cox was said to have made the request out of concern that the public hearings would inhibit future prosecution of persons accused in the case.

Citing Senate sources as the origin of the report, the Washington Post said Cox apparently passed on the request to the chief counsel of the special Senate Watergate committee, Samuel Dash, and Dash rejected it.

The Post said one of its sources said Cox did not ask that the hearings simply be suspended but that they be halted completely. Dash was said to have told him, "That would be impossible."

There has been some agitation within the Senate committee for a speed-up in the pace of hearings. Sen. Daniel J. Gurney, R-Fla., recommended to Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Thursday that key witnesses, including former White House aides and John N. Mitchell, be called promptly when hearings resume next week.

Another member, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., made a similar suggestion last week. Ervin said in North Carolina Thursday night that "I wish top level officials could come before us at this time" but he has generally followed the strategy planned by Dash to build a record gradually with lesser witnesses before calling "big names."

Besides Mitchell, the former attorney general who was President Nixon's campaign manager at the time of the Watergate burglary, these include Nixon's former top two aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Ervin complained that it was the Justice Department that was partly to blame for two witnesses not being available until mid-June —John W. Dean and Jeb S. Magruder, both former White House aides.

The committee voted to give limited immunity to both for their testimony but the Justice Department exercised its prerogative to delay for 30 days issuance of a formal court order granting the immunity.

Prosecutors who handled the government's investigation before Cox took command a week ago had already expressed concern about the effect of testimony at the Senate hearings on their efforts to prosecute successfully several more persons expected to be indicted on the case.

Mitchell, Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean and Magruder all have been among those mentioned as possibly facing indictment.

Other developments:

—William D. Ruckelshaus, acting FBI director, said in an interview with the Post that the agency had suffered "no permanent damage" as a result of some unfavorable disclosures during the Watergate investigation. He said morale in the FBI is down but predicted problems "will evaporate once a good, strong man" takes charge. He reiterated he does not want to be permanent director.

—Haldeman acknowledged in testimony before a Senate subcommittee Thursday that the White House sought last year to limit one aspect of the FBI investigation of Watergate "in the interest of national security." But the former White House chief of staff denied this or any other activity on his part was in-

Senate okays delay of car smog devices

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has narrowly passed legislation calling for delay until next February in implementation of a program requiring new smog controls on five million California used cars.

In an abrupt reversal, the Senate Thursday evening approved the measure on a 21-11 vote, the bare minimum necessary, and sent it to an uncertain future in the Assembly.

The resolution (SCR52), defeated three days ago on a 14-14 tie vote, asks but does not require the state Air Resources Board to postpone start of the statewide smog device installation program from July 1 to Jan. 31.

Several legislators, including leaders of both parties, were present but did not vote. Six lawmakers who didn't vote on Tuesday did so Thursday but only Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, switched. He reversed himself and voted "aye."

Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, chief Senate opponent of delay, said he would now take his fight to the Assembly, remarking, "The Assembly has always been tougher on smog control than the Senate."

Under the program during the nine-month period ending May 30, owners of five million 1966-70 model year cars must install the devices aimed at reducing emission of oxides of nitrogen by up to 50 per cent per car.

But foes of the project, including Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, said great doubt exists over whether four of six devices approved by the Air Resources Board would perform without damaging engine parts.

MAKING WAY FOR THE NEW

Charged with setting fire, faking story

GARDEN, Mich. (UPI) — Delta County Deputy Sheriff Dennis Murphy, 25, the only law officer within 20 miles of this Upper Michigan village of 380 residents, was held in the County Jail today, charged with the murder of his wife and two young sons.

Murphy, appointed a special deputy less than six months ago, originally told investigators he had been lured away from his home early Thursday morning and "jumped" by two men shortly before his wife, Janet 20, and sons Randy, 2, and Robbie, 7 months, perished in a fire that destroyed their house.

Murphy was found by two volunteer firemen rushing to the house fire. He was shackled by his own handcuffs to a tractor parked behind the town hall, three blocks from his house.

Nearby was a message, scrawled on the side of the town hall in red crayon or lipstick. It read:

"I will kill you Murphy. First (your) wife and kid."

Delta County prosecutor Tony I. Marcinkewicz gave no indication of a motive for the deaths, saying only that police were not seeking anyone else.

Volunteer firemen from Garden who rushed to Murphy's burning house were unable to fight the blaze because the gasoline had been drained from the fire truck parked at the town hall. Three spark plugs were missing from a gasoline tanker truck parked next to the town hall, and ignition wires had been pulled from Murphy's auto, parked in front of his house.

Murphy, who was responsible for keeping order throughout the Garden Peninsula jutting into Lake Michigan below Big Bay De Noc, had told investigators that two men came to his house shortly after 1 a.m. to report a serious traffic accident some 15 miles away.

He told officers his wife took the message, saying someone would meet him at the town hall to drive the ambulance and help at the accident scene.

Murphy told investigators he was beaten when he stepped inside the town hall and dragged outside with his shirt pulled over his head so he could not see his attackers. He said he was then shackled to the tractor and left helpless as his house burned down nearby, though he said he did not know of the fire until later.

"I still can't believe it. Not Dennis," said a high school friend of Murphy's who asked not to be identified. "He used to ride his kids up and down through town on his bicycle.

"He's a real quiet guy," the friend said. "Everybody just about fell over backwards— small town like this, you know. His mother died when he was young, but they had a good life. His grandmother raised him. He had everything going for him.

"He definitely was a family type guy. He never hung around with the guys or anything. He wasn't the drinking type. He'd just go home and be with his family. His wife was a pretty gal."

Officials said Murphy graduated from a seven-week police course at Northern Michigan University earlier this year, and was hired by the village as a policeman. He was assigned as a special deputy sheriff to help patrol this remote fishing area, but was not paid by the county.

An Army veteran, Murphy was wounded in Vietnam in 1969 while fighting near the Cambodian border. He worked with his father as a pipefitter here before becoming a policeman.

Pomona College radio operator recovering from attack while running student station

CLAREMONT — Michael Mitchell, 20-year-old student severely beaten at college radio station KSPC, was reported in good condition today at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

Mitchell was attacked while sitting at the control panel of the station on the Pomona College campus early Sunday.

One witness told police that Mitchell was assaulted so suddenly he didn't have time to protect himself. He was knocked from his chair and kicked in the face by a young man who then appeared to try to break one of Mitchell's legs across the chair, witnesses said.

The victim was operating the radio station shortly after 1 a.m. in the basement of the Thatcher Music Building, 340 N. College Ave., at the time of the incident. His attacker apparently got in with a companion when Mitchell buzzed open the automatic door for two other persons.

A witness later told campus security that he was shocked at the way in which the four or five persons who were there stood around while Mitchell was beaten.

The victim suffered a variety of injuries, including a broken jaw.

Police today said they have been unable to talk to Mitchell and are uncertain about the motive for the attack. The man who attacked him, however, yelled something about Mitchell leaving his sister alone, one witness said.

Police did not receive a report of the incident from campus security until Thursday. There have been no arrests, although officers said they have been given the identity of the attacker.

Nixon, Pompidou talks end; agree more than disagree

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou ended their two-day Icelandic summit today and Pompidou said they were more in agreement than disagreement on the "major problems" between them.

But neither of the leaders claimed more than to have begun the search for solutions to trans-Atlantic issues of trade, money and defense.

"These meetings are more like a conception than a delivery", Pompidou told a news conference after conferring privately with Nixon for six hours and 49 minutes. "Fortunately, a conception is a more pleasant business than a delivery."

The last of three private sessions between the two presidents lasted less than two hours. They then joined their Cabinet ministers and advisers for 75 minutes more of general discussions before heading for home.

Nixon told Pompidou as they shook hands at the close of the summit, "See you in Paris," referring to his plans to visit Paris as part of a European tour later this year.

Gloomy weekend weather likely

The first day in June has brought the prospects of a gloomy weekend to Pomona Valley with low clouds and drizzles in night and morning hours and some hazy sunshine in afternoons.

National Weather Service forecasters in Riverside said the weekend weather is typical for June with coastal low cloudiness.

Temperatures in the afternoons this weekend should reach near 70 degrees, a far cry from last weekend's heat wave. The high today should reach 66 degrees. Thursday's high temperature in Pomona was 63 degrees.

Ex-POW believes MIAs are dead

DENVER (UPI) — A Navy commander who spent seven and a half years in various North Vietnamese prison camps believes the 1,300 American military men listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia are dead.

"My personal feeling is that most of these men will not show up," James Hutton said Thursday. "But I would like to remind the American public that they are not yet accounted for and should not be forgotten.

Fear 26 perish in Latin air tragedy

SAO LUIZ, Brazil (UPI) — A Southern Cross Caravelle airliner crashed and exploded today while landing in this northern Brazilian city, at least 26 persons died in the crash.

The plane was attempting to land when it slid off the runway and burst into flames, according to airport personnel.

Declares republic, names self president

Greek leader abolishes monarchy

ATHENS (UPI) — Premier George Papadopoulos today abolished the Greek monarchy with a charge that exiled King Constantine had master-minded an unsuccessful coup attempt against the military government last week. He declared Greece a republic and named himself its first president.

Papadopoulos, premier and regent for the king, said he would hold a national referendum within two months to approve the decision to abolish the monarchy and form a republic. He also said parliamentary elections would be held by the end of 1974.

The move came nine days after the government smashed a planned plot within the navy to overthrow the ruling military regime and return the king to his throne. Papadopoulos accused Constantine today of organizing the navy plot.

"He cooperated with all kinds of reactionaries, turned against the armed forces and behaved like a party leader of adventurists, fellow travelers, saboteurs and even murderers," Papadopoulos said.

Member of Upland aviation family booked as deputies seize pot haul

BANNING — Roger Bill Cable, 34, member of a prominent Upland aviation family and former president of Cable Commuter Airlines, was arrested here with two other men and more than 500 pounds of marijuana were seized from a private plane, according to Riverside County sheriff's deputies.

Cable, who lives at 1749 W. 13th St., Upland; James Thomas Boyle Jr., 22, and Donald Leo Walters, 42, both of Costa Mesa, were arrested Wednesday night for investigation of possession and transporting marijuana for sale and are now awaiting preliminary hearing in a Riverside Municipal Court.

The three men were arrested in a combined operation of the Banning Police Department and the Riverside County Sheriff's Department narcotics enforcement team following an investigation into illegal drug traffic in the Banning area.

Cable, now in Riverside County Jail, listed his current occupation as a self-employed salesman. Cable was the president of the Cable Commuter Airlines until it was sold to Golden West Airlines in 1969.

His family operates Cable Airport in Upland.

Hijackers still holding hostages

LIMA (UPI) — A hijacked Colombian airliner with 25 hostages and six crewmembers aboard flew in today from the island of Aruba and the hijackers told police they wanted to keep going —possibly to Buenos Aires.

The plane's owners had agreed to pay $50,000 ransom for return of the crew and the hostages after the Colombian government rejected demands for the release of 47 political prisoners and it was thought Lima was the last stop.

Instead, the two young, longhaired gunmen who hijacked the plane last Wednesday told airport police in Lima they wanted to refuel and continue the flight.

The hijackers ordered the red, white and blue plane to park in front of the terminal while they talked with airport authorities by radio, keeping the doors shut to prevent the escape of hostages. Eleven of the original 89 hostages fled during one of several stops in Aruba.

Americans go back to land

Vegetable gardens sprout in war on high prices

By United Press International

Americans in increasing numbers, facing rising produce prices in grocery stores across the country, have responded by planting lettuce, tomatoes and other salad ingredients in their backyards.

"We've had the biggest increase since perhaps the victory gardens back in World War II," said Joe Hames of the Everett Seed Co. of Atlanta, which sells wholesale garden seeds in Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama.

In Marion, Ill., a spokesman for the Farmer's Produce and Implement Co., said, "People who have never put out a garden before are putting one out this year, and a few of them have said it's because of the high prices. As soon as it dries up a little, they snow us under buying seeds and plants."

The victory gardens—planted during World War II so more food would be available for the troops—were not confined to the average wage-earner struggling to make ends meet.

A resident of an exclusive North Dallas neighborhood has a vegetable garden in his backyard and has turned his entire front yard into a field of wheat.

And San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen reported that a suburban socialite who felt food prices were too high decided to plant her own garden. She called a landscape architect who laid it out and planted it for her.

The price of lettuce soared to 79 cents a head in New York City during May, but was selling in most Manhattan stores today for 69 cents. The price of other produce was mixed, but in all parts of the country vegetable prices were up from the same time last year.

In Washington, the Department of Agriculture announced Thursday the average prices of raw farm products jumped 4 per cent in the month ending May 15 and were 33 per cent above those of a year ago.

Vegetable prices, however, varied around the country. A salad eater in Chicago buying a head of iceberg lettuce and a pound of tomatoes paid $1.08, while in Miami he could get the same groceries for 74 cents.

Growers and packers said the main reason produce prices have risen this spring, a time of year when prices usually drop as abundant crops are harvested, is bad weather, especially too much rain.

"Heavy winter rains which prevented planting in lettuce-growing districts of the West are the main cause of the low supply of lettuce this year," said C. B. Christensen, director of the California Department of Food and Agriculture. "Lettuce supplies are still low, and it takes time to bring them back up to normal."

Even weekend gardeners have felt the sting of unfavorable spring weather.

"A thunderstorm wiped out all the lettuce I had planted in my backyard," said Rick Henry, 30, of Dallas, a businessman. "All I know to do is buy more seeds and start over."

Growers in the San rancisco area said the boycott against nonunion lettuce has not been a factor in rising prices, but produce dealers in Dallas and Atlanta mentioned it as one reason.

"Bad weather, labor costs, lettuce strikes—it's all caused it," said a spokesman for Minyard Food Stores in Dallas.

In Atlanta, a Kroger Food Store manager said the quality of lettuce is down this season and suggested the labor problems could be forcing growers to harvest as they can find pickers.

GHOSTS OF THE PAST

Press tour goes through the main cell block of Alcatraz where the likes of Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelly and Birdman Robert Stroud were prisoners. The "Rock" will be opened to the public in the fall for the first time since Mexico ceded it to the U. S. in 1848.

Near balance in 74?

Sharp Drop in Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration said today that unexpected revenue from the booming economy would reduce the federal budget deficit in the current fiscal year to $18 billion and to less than $3 billion in the year beginning July 1.

If the estimate holds up through the 1974 fiscal year, which begins July 1, it would be the closest to balance the federal budget has been since 1969, the last year the government's books were out of the red.

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) attributed the sharply narrower budget deficits to heavier than expected tax collections from both citizens and corporations.

With one month to go in fiscal 1973, the OMB said spending would outrun receipts by $17.8 billion, a $7 billion improvement over the original estimate.

For fiscal 1974, the bureau placed the deficit at $2.7 billion, sharply lower than the $12.7 billion red ink projection given last January.

The last budget surplus in fiscal 1969, the transition year period between the Johnson and Nixon Administrations, was $3.2 billion.

Deficits of $2.8 billion, $23 billion and $23.2 billion followed in the next three fiscal years.

OMB Director Roy L. Ash said the revised figures assumed no increase in federal spending from previous budget forecasts.

"The controlled management of federal outlays that the President promised in January is being carried out," Ash said.

If the estimates run true to form, the federal balance sheet will look something like this for the 1973 and 1974 fiscal years:

1973—receipts $232 billion; expenditures $249.8 billion; deficit $17.8 billion.

1974—receipts $266 billion; expenditures $268.7 billion; deficit $2.7 billion.

By law, the administration is required to send Congress an updated budget forecast by June 1.

"The higher receipts reflect both vigorous economic growth and higher than anticipated price increases. Under such conditions, continued restraint on federal spending is the only sensible course."

Figured on a full-employment basis, an accounting device used to determine what the government budget would look like if the economy were running at capacity, the 1973 budget would show a $1.8 billion deficit, swinging to a $5 billion surplus in the next 12 months, Ash said.

'Grievance hearing' led to warden, aide killing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A "grievance hearing" between a Holmesburg prison official and two Black Muslim inmates turned into a bloodbath Thursday that left the warden and assistant warden dead and three persons seriously injured.

Warden Patrick Curran, 48, and Deputy Warden Robert Fromhold, 51, both were stabbed in the chest with what police said were finely sharpened table knives. They were pronounced dead at Nazareth Hospital.

Capt. Leroy Taylor, 49, who attempted to aid the officials, was reported in stable condition at Nazareth with multiple stab wounds.

The two inmates—one convicted of killing a policeman and the other awaiting trial for murdering a police officer—were under heavy guard at Philadelphia General Hospital after they were subdued by other prison guards.

Joseph Bowen, 25, was listed in serious condition with a ruptured spleen, a broken arm and a possible concussion. Fred Burton, 26, received head injuries, multiple bruises, cuts and a possible arm fracture.

Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, who went to the scene with Police Commissioner Joseph F. O'Neill, said Bowen and Burton had gone to Fromhold's office to discuss a request for daylong Muslim prayer services.

A few minutes later, Rizzo said, Curran and Taylor, who were in a nearby office, heard scuffling and rushed into the room. Fromhold and Curran were fatally stabbed; Taylor, who alerted other guards, was stabbed in the back.

The inmates were subdued by guards in a battle that left Fromhold's small office splattered with blood and littered with torn clothing and broken furniture.

More than 250 police officers, armed with shotguns and rifles and accompanied by 30 K-9 Corps dogs, were brought to the 77-year-old prison in the northeast Philadelphia area.

Some 1,200 prisoners were searched and returned to their cells without incident following the attack. The prison was built to hold 700 inmates.

Rizzo called the incident "a good case for the death penalty."

"You'll never deter crime without it," Rizzo said. "I'm tired of hearing this baloney about be kind to criminals. They were in there because they were criminals."

Open to the public in the fall

Alcatraz: a preview for the curious

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Park Ranger David Ames pointed at a tiny corner cell on the second tier: "That was one of Al Capone's cells."

Inside the six-by-eight cubicle on Alcatraz' crumbling main cellblock: flaking green and white paint, chipped and rusty toilet and basin, two corroded metal shelves, an empty light socket, two radio jacks, and a box of crackers left by a more recent occupant.

Outside the cell: broken glass, rusted metal, crumbling concrete, collapsed catwalks leading nowhere, rotten handrails on steep steps, and the graffiti of convicts and Indian occupiers.

That's the Alcatraz that thousands of visitors will see starting next fall when six rangers start taking the public on the tour that Ames led a horde of newsmen on Thursday.

The National Park Service conducted the preview after formally calling for bids for a ferry service to the 22-acre island in San Francisco Bay. It expects about 1,000 persons a day to take walks through the penitentiary which closed 10 years ago when it is opened for visitors late in the year.

It will be the first time the public has been permitted on Alcatraz since Mexico ceded it to the United States in 1848.

The island has been a fort, military prison and federal penitentiary —the impregnable and unescapable "Rock" —in the years since. Last fall, it became part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The Park Service decided to open it for public tours "to satisfy the curiosity of those who know the myth but haven't seen the island," said area superintendent William J. Whalen.

Visitors, in guided groups of 25, will walk through 1850s fortifications to the top of the 145-foot island and the yellow main cellblock.

Inside the building —its windows broken and its paint-flaked walls covered by graffiti from the 1969-71 Indian occupation —they will be shown Capone's old home, the former haunts of "Birdman" Robert Stroud, isolation "dark" cells, and the abandoned dining hall.

They'll walk through a barbwire encircled recreation yard, down a steep flight of steps to a wild garden once tended by trustees, and under rusty catwalks and guard towers back to the pier.

Along the way, they'll get a fantastic panoramic view across the bay that runs from the Oakland-San Francisco Bay Bridge, across the San Francisco waterfront and skyscrapers, and the Golden Gate Bridge, to the bayside town of Sausalito.

Whalen said the Park Service hopes to develop permanent plans for the island during the five-year period of prison tours.

"I have personal problems with perpetuating the likes of Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelly, and the Birdman," he said.

"We want to take care of the curiosity, the interest in the mystique of Alcatraz, and then eventually do something here that the people of the San Francisco region and the nation can be proud of."

Landmark ruling keeps homo from teaching

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The right of a homosexual school teacher to continue teaching is protected only as long as he doesn't publicly discuss his sexual preferences, a U. S. District Court judge ruled in a landmark case here Thursday.

Judge Joseph Young affirmed the right of Montgomery County (Md.) school officials to transfer Joseph Acanfora from his eighth grade science classroom to a desk job after he discussed his homosexuality on national television (CBS "60 minutes") last September.

Young said teachers are just as entitled to their beliefs as others, but "the point is, that to some extent every teacher has to go out of his way to hide his private life and that a homosexual teacher is not at liberty to ignore or hold in contempt the sensitivity of the subject to the school community.

Nixon confidant accused of fraud in multimillions

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A long time friend and key financial backer of President Nixon, C. Arnholt Smith, was accused by the Securities and Exchange Commission Thursday of a multimillion dollar fraud.

Smith was named in a civil suit by the SEC, along with two associates and six of the companies in his far flung business empire.

Smith has been a confidant of the President since Nixon was a congressman. He reportedly raised more than $1 million for Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign, including $250,000 of Smith's own money.

Just last weekend it was revealed that Smith had agreed to sell the San Diego Padres baseball team, of which he is the majority owner, to a Washington, D.C. group for $12 million, the highest price for a team in the history of professional baseball.

Smith, 74, rose from bank teller to the director of a financial empire that includes the U.S. National Bank, Yellow Cab franchises in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Phoenix, hotels and office buildings, tuna canneries here and in Puerto Rico, an airline, Air California, produce, real estate and insurance firm

Postal Service reduces speed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Postal Service says it will follow the advice of some leading gasoline suppliers by instructing its drivers to drive at speeds less than 50 miles an hour, avoid jack rabbit starts, keep engines properly tuned and cut their engines when making pick-ups and deliveries.

Frank A. Sommerkamp, assistant postmaster general for delivery services, said Thursday the actions would save gasoline. He said a reduction of 1 per cent in the amount of gasoline used by Postal Service vehicles would cut annual fuel consumption by 857,018 gallons for the service's fleet of 100,000 vehicles.

Freeway head-on crash injures 3

POMONA — A head-on wrongway collision on the Pomona Freeway Thursday night sent three persons to a hospital and one of them to jail.

The accident, which demolished both cars, occurred east of Grand Avenue.

Beverly June Flewell, 42, of 23021 Dry Creek Road, Diamond Bar, was driving west about 30 miles an hour in an east-bound lane when her sedan collided with an auto operated by Jeffery John Della Penna, 16, of 6340 Sacramento Ave., Alta Loma, highway patrolmen reported.

Della Penna swerved to the right and hit his brakes in an attempt to avoid the collision. The cars hit in the freeway's fast lane.

Mrs. Flewell reported she had entered the freeway at Fullerton Road and was approaching Diamond Bar Boulevard when she observed the other car coming toward her.

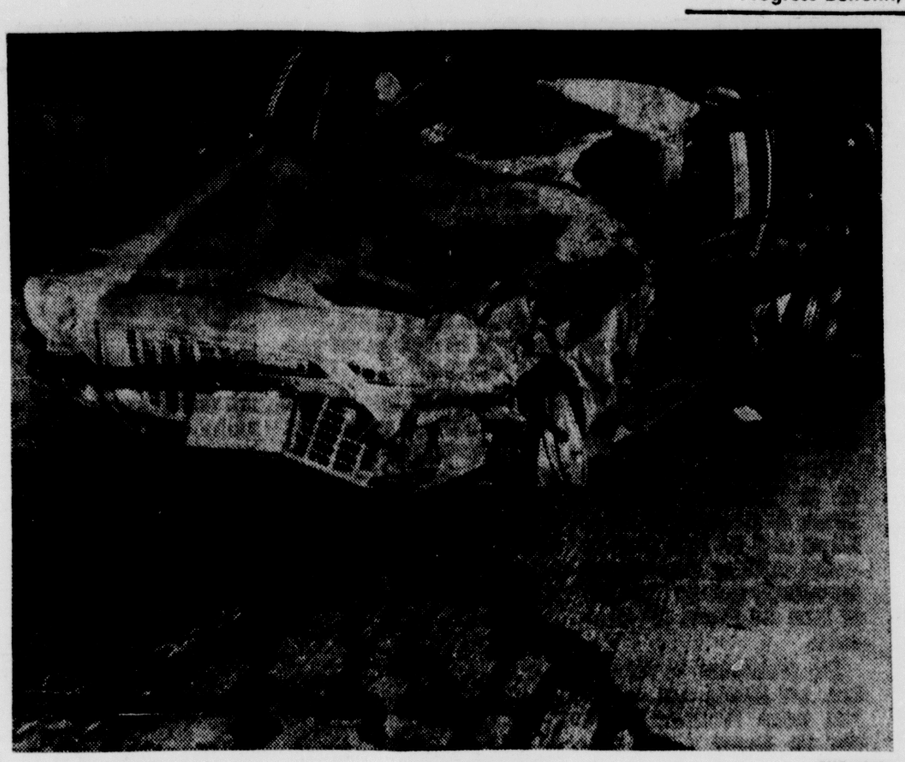

She was treated at Doctors Hospital in La Puente and later booked at the sheriff's station in Industry for investigation of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Della Penna and a passenger, Timothy Chalfant, 14, of 6156 Hellman Ave., Alta Loma, were taken to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Della Penna was treated and transferred to an unspecified hospital. Chalfant was released after being treated.

In a second accident, Mary Atkins, 23, of Fullerton was injured when her car overturned on the Orange Freeway near Pathfinder Road.

She was driving north about 65 miles an hour and swerved to avoid colliding with another vehicle, causing loss of control, officers said. Her car hit the center divider fence before overturning.

The driver was taken to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated and released.

Firemen's special day starts early

LA VERNE — Volunteer firemen, who are to be honored tonight at a Chamber of Commerce banquet, received their warm reception earlier than anticipated.

The volunteers turned out in force this morning after screaming fire whistles awakened them and everyone else in town when a fire destroyed an abandoned house at 1501 Foothill Blvd. Arson is suspected.

About 34 firemen arrived at the scene about 1 a.m. The two-story structure was listed as a complete loss. There was no immediate estimate of the damage. Inspector Dave Perrin said the property is owned by Santa Anita Development Corporation.

The structure was scheduled to be removed from the site to make way for the construction of a Von's Market, a drug store and other small stores. Firemen were at the scene about three hours.

The blaze was the first major fire in La Verne in recent months. Firemen will be honored guests tonight at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet which will be held at the Foothill Terarce Mobile Home Park.

3 men rob market at knifepoint

POMONA — Three men, one with an 8-inch butcher knife, robbed the 7-11 Market at San Antonio and Grand avenues Thursday. They took cash, six watches and a portable radio from Robert J. McKnight. The robber with the knife was described as a Negro about 20. He is 5 feet 9, 145 pounds and wore a 1-inch "natural" hairdo. He wore a blue, short-sleeved shirt, green knit cap and dark trousers.

3 of 4 in ambush case cut job ties

SAN BERNARDINO — Three of four persons allegedly involved in the bloody Oct. 6, 1972, ambush of a Chino prison car either quit or left their jobs by the date of the ambush, according to testimony Thursday.

In the continuing murder trial for Benton Douglas Burt, 30, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt, 18, employers of the defendants and co-defendant Alan Seabock took the stand in San Bernardino Superior Court.

The Burts, now on trial, and Mrs. Jean Hobson and Seabock, awaiting a separate trial, are charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon and rescuing a prisoner. The four are alleged to have conspired to free Ronald Wayne Beaty, shot California Institution for Men prison guard Jesus Sanchez to death, and wounded another guard, George Fitzgerald.

According to Seabock's employer, Chester Kanewske, a San Carlos industrial adhesives firm official, Seabock was off work on "personal business" Sept. 15 and took sick leave on Oct. 6. Beaty had testified as a prosecution witness that the persons involved in his escape were in the Chino area Sept. 15 intending to free him on that date, but had to call off their plan because one person was allegedly not in place.

Scott Streiker, an official of Mrs. Burt's employer, an electronics assembly firm, said Mrs. Burt was present at work on Sept. 15, but quit working without notice on Oct. 4. He said he had had no knowledge of her being laid off or transferred.

According to Burt's employer, San Francisco hotelman Dale Swanholt, Burt abandoned his job as clerk on Sept. 1.

Earlier this week, Vivian Ferreira, the landlady for the Burts' Hayward apartment, testified that she saw a car similar to the one used in the Oct. 6 ambush. She said it was parked in front of their apartment two or three times between Sept. 28 and Oct. 5.

Mrs. Ferreira, cross-examined by the Burts' attorney Charles Garry, said she was positive that the decals on the car's dashboard and rear window were similar to those observed by San Bernardino County Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Ron Maniord. Maniord noted the decals when the abandoned escape cars were found parked at Klapp's Market on Euclid Avenue shortly after the ambush.

Los Angeles International Airport parking official Thomas Barnett testified that records of the parking lots at the airport indicated the ambush cars were parked at the airport on Sept. 16, 20, and 27 of last year. In addition one of the cars made a one hour visit to the airport on Oct 5, he testified.

The evidence tended to support testimony of Beaty earlier when he said he was told by Mrs. Hobson that the cars used in the ambush were parked at the L.A. airport before the escape.

3 rock groups plan concert

WALNUT — Three rock groups will present a concert in the Student Center at Mt. San Antonio College at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Starring will be Central, presenting "total music-theater." Also on the card are Joanis, a Long Beach-based trio, and the 10-member soul-rock group, Justus, from East San Gabriel.

The concert is sponsored by VITA, the campus volunteer agency. Tickets are $1.75, students $1.50. Further information can be obtained by calling the Student Center office.

Car leaves road; 3 hurt

POMONA — A woman and two children were injured Thursday afternoon when their car ran off Avalon Avenue west of Ganesha Boulevard and hit a utility pole.

Aida C. Hall, 27, 2237 Belinda Ave., Margaret Mary Hall, 6, and Jason M. Hall, 7, were released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police reported that the driver said she swerved to avoid a child who had run into the street, and her car went out of control.

Day off in space and shower—a 1st

HOUSTON (UPI) — While engineers on the ground focus their talents on solving Skylab's energy crisis, the astronauts took the day off to rest, shower —a space first—catch up on housekeeping and save electricity.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz, beginning the second week of their marathon, had seven hours of free time on their schedule. It was the first day off given to Americans in space.

"We've got an awful lot of cleaning up to do in here," Conrad said.

Each crewman planned to take a three-quart hot shower— the first time it's been done in space—using a water hose, vacuum drain, soap and a cylindrical curtain. They also planned to do some sightseeing and Weitz asked for coordinates for the Pyramids of Egypt and for Mt. Kilimanjaro in Tanzania.

For a while Thursday night, it appeared the pilots would give up three hours of their time today to insert a television camera through an airlock to inspect the power generating wing jammed against the side of Skylab. The crew agreed to do it but controllers later decided they didn't have time to work out the necessary jury-rigging procedures.

Skylab's power shortage, however, was a top priority item and controllers continued to look at the possibility of using the television camera later to see if a spacewalk would be safe and likely to do the job. Engineers suggested the pilots might use a bone saw from a medical kit to cut metal holding the wing.

Congress on record: stop the bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The next American plane dropping bombs on Cambodia will be defying the express wishes of both the House and the Senate.

The Senate, by a vote of 63 to 19 Thursday, and the House, by a margin of 224 to 172 on May 10, have gone on record opposing expenditures for military activity "in, over or from the shores of" Cambodia.

The prohibition is not yet law, but Senate war critics said today President Nixon can no longer claim congressional sanction for the air war he ordered in Cambodia.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said the bombing of Cambodia is "illegal and unconstitutional as of this moment."

But Eagleton, the sponsor of the Senate's antiwar amendment, acknowledged there was little congress could do if Nixon chooses to continue the bombing.

Once his amendment is signed into law or enacted by overriding the president's e-x-p-e-c-t-e-d veto, however, Eagleton said Nixon will have no option but to stop the bombing.

"Not even the most sophisticated Wall Street lawyer could get around this amendment," he said following Thursday's lopsided vote.

The Eagleton amendment, part of a $3.7 billion supplemental appropriations bill, would prohibit the use of any congressionally appropriated funds for Cambodia bombing, or for any renewal of bombing in Laos.

The House version of the supplemental bill, although containing antiwar language identical to the Senate's, does not go as far. Its prohibition on Cambodia funds applies only to the supplemental bill itself, and not to the billions of dollars in war funds Congress appropriated earlier.

This means that the supplemental bill must now go to a Senate-House conference to work out an antiwar clause that both houses will accept. The process could take weeks and— since the House representatives in the conference likely will be dominated by members who opposed any restriction on funds—chances are dim that the Eagleton amendment will survive.

Even if it does, a presidential veto likely would be sustained by the House.

In 'hot seat' on death penalty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A disgruntled assemblyman's angry resignation from a committee deciding the fate of capital punishment bills once again today placed Speaker Bob Moretti on the political "hot spot."

Assemblyman John J. Miller of Berkeley, a four-term black lawmaker who once served as house Democratic leader, bitterly resigned from the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee late Thursday because Moretti did not appoint him as chairman.

Miller had been the committee vice chairman.

A vacancy on the crucial committee opened up May 20 when the chairman, Alameda Democrat Robert W. Crown, was fatally struck by an automobile while jogging.

Miller's resignation, coupled with an unusually harsh blast at Moretti, came eight hours after the speaker appointed black Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles, to fill the vacant seat on the committee, and white Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, as the new chairman. Sieroty already was a committee member.

Miller, Dixon and Sieroty all oppose capital punishment, as did Crown. But Dixon promised to keep an "open mind" on the subject.

"Perhaps," said Miller in a prepared statement, "being on the board of an advanced liberal organization such as Americans for Democratic Action, being independent, outspoken and black without thinking it's a joke sets me apart."

Miller also implied that Moretti was carrying on a "personal vendetta and petty vindictiveness" because he did not support Moretti when he first ran for speaker in 1970.

Moretti mildly replied by defending his appointments and saying, "it disappoints me that he (Miller) would turn his back on these (capital punishment) issues at this time."

Dixon's appointment had briefly returned the seven-man committee to the same 4-3 anti-capital punishment domination it had under Crown. But with Miller's resignation, there again is a 3-3 split, and Moretti must choose a replacement.

"I know where I am. I'm on the hot spot," Moretti had said before appointing Dixon.

The person Moretti appoints to succeed Miller could cast the deciding "swing" vote on whether a major death penalty bill is killed by the committee —which opens extensive hearings next Wednesday —or is sent to the floor, where it almost certainly would pass.

"I know I can't win," Moretti said in appointing Dixon. "I have never received the kind of hate mail in my life that I have on the death penalty."

Moretti, a contender for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said he personally opposes capital punishment but is keenly aware that Californians voted 2-1 last November to authorize the legislature to reinstate it. The courts previously had ruled the death penalty unconstitutional.

Moretti predicted "one way or the other there will be a vote on the (Assembly) floor this year" on capital punishment. He explained even if the committee kills all major bills, there will be an attempt to amend one into another measure.

The legislature's major capital punishment bill, by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, has passed the Senate and is pending in the Assembly committee.

Noise impact area of OIA

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

ONTARIO — Officials in Ontario, Montclair and Chino have been asked to make specific proposals of land uses within a noise impact area around the Ontario International Airport.

The area, determined by aircraft noise emissions, falls within an irregular boundary generally located north of Holt Avenue, east of Central Avenue and north of Francis Street.

Members of the West Valley Planning Agency (WVPA) which also serves as an airport land use commission, made this request Wednesday following public hearings on establishing planning boundaries and adoption of an interim land use plan.

The WVPA members include City Council members from Ontario, Upland, Montclair, Chino and Fontana, plus County Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala and Daniel B. Miksell.

In setting planning boundaries, members designated this to include the West End of San Bernardino County which extends from Fontana to the Los Angeles county line and the foothills to the Riverside-Orange county lines.

The commission also voted to adopt land use elements of the five West End cities outside the noise impact areas.

In a written report to the WVPA, Kenneth Topping, executive director, suggested that affected jurisdictions review and report on active measures to be taken to mitigate existing problems and forestall future problems of noise, hazard and displacement of population within the noise areas.

"This action would place the burden of responsibility for dealing with airport land use questions directly on the jurisdiction most affected," he noted.

At present, planes departing from the airport go west over a section of Montclair or turn left and pass over a portion of Chino's planning area.

Montclair has a land use proposal relating to the airport which seeks to solve the problem of over-flights, officials said.

Ontario has a general outline for the impact area, while Chino has no such land use proposals, they added.

In his report, Topping included a section of the Public Utilities Code which outlined responsibilities of airport land use commissions:

"The commission shall formulate a comprehensive land use plan that will provide for the orderly growth of each public airport and the area surrounding the airport within the jurisdiction of the commission, and will safeguard the general welfare of the inhabitants within the vicinity of the airport and the public in general.

"The commission plan shall include a long range master plan that reflects the anticipated growth of the airport during at least the next 20 years.

"In formulating a land use plan, the commission may develop height restrictions on buildings, may specify use of land and may determine building standards, including soundproofing adjacent to airports, within the planning area."

In his report, Topping noted that since the ice cream parlor tragedy in Sacramento and with recent successful citizen suits against airports elsewhere in California, the matter of the proper functioning of airport land use commissions has become a matter of statewide concern in the legislature and among state agencies.

"It is appropriate that the West Valley Airport Land Use Commission is taking seriously its responsibilities to deal positively with airport noise and safety problems to avert conditions which have so adversely affected human lives elsewhere."

$2 million grant

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ford Foundation has anniunced a $2 million grant to the Population Council, a worldwide leader in research in population. This is the fourth of a series of annual $2 million grants to the council to help with its program of technical assistance to family planning research in reproductive biology and contraceptive development.

Band drill team to give awards

MONTCLAIR — The Montclair High School Marching Band Drill Team and Auxiliary will hold their annual awards banquet Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Montclair High School.

The band and drill team recently participated in the parade at Magic Mountain in Valencia. The trip was an overnight event with members of the band and drill team staying at the Mission Hills Inn.

New county planner tells of objectives

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — Ken Topping, new county planning director, specified three objectives for his department in the upcoming months in an address before members of the Southwest Hills Environmental and Planning Association Thursday.

Topping, who succeeded Neil Pfulb in March, said the county planning department will attempt to eliminate problems with the development process, provide better notification to the public on hearing matters and begin to match up long and short range planning for both cities and county.

Topping addressed 19 members of SHEPA in a breakfast meeting at the Los Serranos Country Club. He began with the statement that he would attempt to "give you an idea of how community and district plans fit in with planning as a whole in the county and state. It affects all of us."

"In the last couple of years there have been major changes in both the way planning operates and what it includes. It has broadened in scope. It formerly dealt with land use and highway routes to serve that land use. At the end of the 1960s since housing was increasing it became the third long range consideration," he continued.

"In 1971 all hell broke loose in the aftermath of the environmental fervor of the Santa Barbara oil spill. The Environmental Quality Act and a rash of similar bills broadened the scope of planning; and we now deal with nine required elements."

Getting the connection between these different subjects is a major problem, Topping said. He explained, for example, there is the question of variety in the price of housing, consideration of all conservation aspects, possibility of open space, scenic routes, seismic factors in terms of development and fault lines.

In the question of noise, officials are having to look at the performance standards of trying to take care of noise level after it occurs or take care of it before it becomes a problem, he said.

"In the area of public safety, we must consider stable soils, mudslides, and other hazards such as fire and risk . . . All this compounded with the environmental review procedure has made planning a lot more complex," Topping explained, "for citizens, planners and developers."

Topping admitted that the county planning department had a "terrific backload of processing" when he took over. This tends to "create unpredictibility for citizens and developers alike. Our objective in the next year is to eliminate the bottlenecks and overlaps and move toward a minimum of delay," he said.

General plans formation and revision for the 27,000 square mile county will be accelerated, Topping said. The county department would also establish "a permanent relation with the Los Serranos and Chino Hills community in that once the general plan is approved and adopted by the board (of supervisors) we're not going to disappear. We will want to have a relationship that's ongoing," he assured the group.

He outlined countywide plans involving such matters as land use, housing, conservation, noise, and air pollution, but stated that such matters would be general. The areas dealing with community plans and implementation would "get into the nitty gritty," he said. "A great deal of attention is going to be focused here over the next several years."

"Basically what I'm saying insofar as the whole planning process is concerned is we'll probably have a continuing relationship with several communities rather than a crash program. This will include more community involvement, better communication and commitment on the part of individuals within the communities. This will have to be a two-way street. We have to count on the active people in the community to give us a real hand as far as reflecting community feelings and aspirations," Topping stated.

The planner stated that this would be done orderly and slowly for more effectiveness. "We don't intend to make a mad scramble and have people falling all over each other," he ended.

Single remap plan faces Senate vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A consolidated reapportionment proposal covering both houses of the state legislature and California's 43-member congressional delegation moves to the Senate floor today after winning narrow approval in committee.

Incorporated into a single bill (AB164) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, plans for redistricting the Senate, Assembly and the state's congressional seats were endorsed Thursday on a minimum 5-2 vote of the Reapportionment Committee.

Two Republicans and three Democrats joined in supporting the measure.

Meade said he was hopeful of speedy consideration for the proposal so an override attempt—should Gov. Ronald Reagan veto the bill — could be mustered before the end of next month when the legislature is scheduled to recess.

The lawmaker predicted there were enough votes in the Assembly to override a veto. For the effort to be successful, the Senate would have to do likewise.

When Meade's bill came into the committee, it contained only an Assembly redistricting plan, realigning the house with 47 Democrats and 33 Republicans. The lineup is now 48-28 with four vacancies.

It was the first public hearing given the plan, which has already passed the Assembly.

The committee amended into Meade's bill a plan keeping the present lines for the state's congressional district and provisions of a Senate reapportionment bill (SB195) that has already been passed by the Senate.

The Senate proposal is designed to preserve the current 20-20 partisan balance in the house. All of the plans are generally aimed as preserving most incumbents planning to seek re-election.

Consolidation favored

Meade told the committee the position of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, was that only a consolidated plan for reapportionment, combining the legislature and Congress, would stand a chance of passage in the Assembly.

The effect would give Reagan an all or nothing choice of approving California's required reapportionment, instead of giving him the opportunity to review each proposal separately.

Reagan supports the Senate plan. According to Meade, he does not favor the Assembly proposal.

'Blackmail'

Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, bitterly charged "blackmail of the most despicable kind" after Meade suggested that the Senate would have to override a veto of the legislative-congressional package in order to enact their own redistricting plan.

Another committee amendment helped to protect the re-election chances of Assembly Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, whose district was severely altered under earlier provisions.

The district of the late Assemblyman Robert Crown, D-Alameda, was collapsed to help out Bee.

Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, protested the elimination of the seats of two Los Angeles County assemblymen who died recently.

"If either Carley Porter (D-Compton) or Larry Townsend (D-Torrance) had lived, this could not have happened," Dills told the committee.

Sen. John Stull, R-Leucadia, also complained of what he called the "rape of San Diego County" under the Assembly redistricting plan.

He said La Mesa would be represented by four assemblymen instead of the present three, and El Cajon by two lawmakers instead of one.

Meade expressed confidence the state Supreme Court, which has taken ultimate jurisdiction over reapportionment, would accept a plan passed by the legislature. The court took control over the matter when the lawmakers failed to act last year.

Scout enters guilty plea to slaying

VAN NUYS (UPI) — A high school honor student and eagle scout will be sentenced June 25 for the strangulation of his 16-year-old girlfriend killed following a lovers' quarrel.

Erik T. Kornbeck, 18, an honor student at Cleveland High School, entered a surprise plea of guilty to a charge of second degree murder this week, after first pleading innocent by reason of insanity in the death of Monica E. McGowan, 16.

Miss McGowan disappeared Feb. 20. Her body was later found by hikers on a plateau in the San Fernando Valley.

Kornbeck was arrested Feb. 25 after he went to police and gave them a statement, the contents of which were not disclosed.

Authorities said the Northridge girl and Kornbeck had argued over continuing their relationship before she was killed.

Cape Canaveral restored but not JFK site

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The State of Florida has officially restored the 425-year-old name "Cape Canaveral" to the area the late President Lyndon B. Johnson renamed "Cape Kennedy" almost 10 years ago.

Gov. Ruebin Askew signed a measure Tuesday by the Florida Legislature restoring the name that was believed given the cape in 1513 by the explorer Ponce de Leon.

The law refers only to the cape itself and makes no attempt to interfere with the designation of the John F. Kennedy Space Center. Johnson had ordered the cape renamed Cape Kennedy on Nov. 29, 1963, after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Gold prices spur mining exploration

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The soaring price of gold—more than $100 an ounce — has brought new life to old, forgotten mines in Nevada and the famous Mother Lode of California and sparked major exploration activity by both big and small mining companies in four states.

"There is a definite increase in interest," Bill Clark, a gold expert with the California Division of Mines and Geology, said Thursday.

"There are a number of companies who have contacted me or the department. Naturally they want to keep it quiet," he said.

Harold Stager, an official of the Office of Mineral Exploration (OME) of the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, Calif., said inquiries for gold mining loans "have gone up 50 per cent in the last month or so."

Stager said the OME loan program was mostly an "assistance project"—loans do not have to be paid back if the venture fails.

He said two applications from Nevada were pending and that five other firms, in both Nevada and California, currently were doing exploration work with OME funds.

"Inquiries have gone up 50 per cent in the last month or so," Stager said. "Six months ago there were 10 to 15 a month, now it's up to 30."

The official U.S. government price on gold is only $42 an ounce and there are regulations governing the sale of the precious, yellow metal, but gold firms still have other markets— dentistry, jewelry, and industry —to sell gold to and the price on the foreign market Thursday was $114 an ounce.

In the Black Hills of South Dakota, miners are "real tickled about the prices and figure they're going to go higher yet," said Iren Borup, state mining inspector.

"There's going to be a lot of mining, that's all there is to it," he said. "I think a lot of these guys are getting ready to mine, but they're waiting to see if the prices will stay around $100 an ounce or come back down. People are already kind of sneaking around."

The Black Hills is the home of the Homestake Gold Co., which has been producing gold since it was at the rock bottom $35-an-ounce price.

In Colorado, the Gold Cycle Gold Corp. floated a $6 million loan earlier this year to reopen the Ajax gold mine in Cripple Creek.

Joe Keating, senior mining inspector fo the state, said there was growing interest in other old, idle mines. "With the price of gold going the way it is I suppose I will have a lot of inquiries into this," he said.

In Nevada, the Carlin and Cortax mines—the state's two biggest commercial producers —are "both benefiting profitably from the rise in prices and expanding to lower priority mines," said Paul Gemill of the Nevada Mining Association.

The Newmont Mining Corp., which owns the Carlin, announced earlier this week it was reopening two old mines, the Bootstrap and Blue Star. The firm said the two were expected to go into production in late 1973 or early 1974.

In the Mother Lode of California, the Alhambra-Atlanta Gold Mining Co. is spending $250,000 to rehabilitate the old Yellowjacket claim near Kelsey. Mrs. Mabel Timm, who controls the mineral rights, said of the historic claim: "The vein has been prospected on the surface fo five miles. We're on the ore now. We know we have high grade ore down there." Production was expected to start in two months.

Another California mine, which has been utilizing an OME loan, is the Brown Bear in Trinity County near Lewiston.

"A lot of the exploration isn't being advertized," said James Carrol, Brown Bear engineer. "But there sure is a lot of activity."

Skylab sun photos stir excitement

HOUSTON (UPI) — Solar physicists who spend long tedious hours peering through telescopes trying to understand more about the sun usually are not excited easily. But they're getting that way because of Skylab.

Skylab's solar observation gear has been sending back television pictures of the sun that have never been seen before.

"We're just in the beginning of observation right now," William Keathley, manager of the Apollo Telescope Mount ATM) experiments, said. "But the instruments are working extremely well and I'm sure we're going to get some excellent data."

Keathley said astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were doing a "magnificient job" in operating the complex gear.

Keathley and four of the scientists who planned the Skylab solar study experiments and will analyze the results, emphasized that the most spectacular pictures for them will be brought back home with the astronauts. Those pictures are being taken by cameras mounted outside the orbiting spaceship and will be retrieved by Kerwin during a spacewalk near the end of the mission.

"We don't know yet what's on the photographic film," said Dr. Richard Tousey, one of the investigators from the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington. "We know the ATM pointing system is very stable, so we're pretty sure the astronaut is able to point the instrument at areas of interest on the sun."

Scientists believe climate, weather patterns and wireless communications are all directly effected by activity on the sun. They are concerned with flares, enormous tongues of hot gas that shoot out millions of miles, and the corona, the sun's fiery atmosphere.

The space station's sun-watching instruments are regular telescopes taken above the interference of the earth's atmosphere to get a direct look at the ball of fire.

Investigators have been delighted at television pictures beamed back to earth, especially one of a bright streamer shooting off the sun's surface.

The corona, thought to be the source of the flares that have a direct effect on the earth, are being studied through an instrument that blocks out the center of the sun so the atmosphere can be studied.

Crude phrase no cause for firing -- court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Supreme Court ruled Thursday that a teacher's use of "a slang expression for an incestuous son" was not grounds for dismissal.

The court in a 5-2 decision ruled in favor of Stanley M. Lindros, a clergyman on leave who was hired as a probationary teacher at a Torrance high school. He taught the 10th grade. Lindros was not rehired after a year of teaching because he had read his creative writing classes one of his own compositions describing the funeral of a former student, a young black who died of a heroin overdose.

In the theme Lindros said he was greeted by an angry black man as he left the funeral. The story told how the black man called him a name containing the controversial phrase.

Justice Mathew Tobriner said in the court decision, "The writer ... could not properly convey the fury of the young black at the apparent condescension of a white man in attending the funeral except by the use of an expletive."

The decision pointed to the distinction between unrestricted use of objectionable language in class and its use in teaching material for a creative writing class.

Sansui 2000X

The Sansui 2000X AM/FM stereo receiver has refinements not usually found in medium-priced components and more power too. The amplifier section delivers 78 watts (RMS) all the way across the audio band, from 20 to 20,000 Hz. Convenience features include both high and low filters, a loudness contour, tape monitoring facilities, FM muting, and Sansui's own multiplex noise canceller for perfectly noise-free FM stereo listening. The 2000X regularly sells for $379.95 with the walnut case, but you'll save half of that when you select the rest of your system from the turntables and speakers shown below.

Sansui 1000X

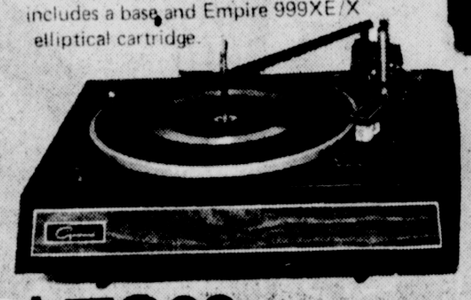

Sansui's 1000X AM/FM stereo receiver has as complete an array of controls as you're ever likely to need, including two tape monitor circuits, FM muting, a loudness contour to boost the bass at low listening levels, and a high filter to eliminate tape hiss. Power is a healthy 56 watts (RMS) with low distortion, and the tuner section has an excellent 2 microvolt sensitivity. We usually sell this versatile Sansui receiver for $329.95, but you'll only pay half of that right now with your choice of the components you see shown below.

$164.97

Either Sansui receiver for half price when you choose a record player and speakers at our regular low prices

Garrard SL55B

The Garrard SL55B record player has Garrard's Synchro-Lab motor for in-tune record playing, a cueing lever to keep your records unscathed, and a gentle, fail-safe record changing mechanism. Our low discount price includes a base and Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge.

$70.90

BSR 510A

The popular BSR 510 changer provides you with everything you need in the way of record saving devices, including anti-skate and a cueing and pause control. There's also a reliable synchronous motor that's immune to voltage fluctuations so your records stay right on pitch. The BSR 510 comes with a base and Shure M75ECS elliptical cartridge.

Garrard 40B

The Garrard 40B is a thoroughly reliable three-speed changer complete with a cueing lever that makes it awfully hard to damage your records. We include a base and a high quality Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge, something you don't usually find in a combination this modestly priced.

BSR 310

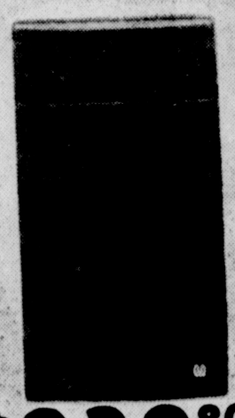

The BSR 310 is a very reliable four-speed automatic changer, and there's a cueing lever that makes it awfully hard to scratch your records. It comes complete with a base and a Shure M75CS magnetic diamond cartridge.

$54.95

Pioneer Project 100

The Pioneer Project 100's are highly accurate two-way systems with a big 10" bass speaker and a dome treble speaker for deep, strong bass and really excellent dispersion of all the high frequencies. You'll hear all the music there is.

$239.80 a pair

Cerwin-Vega 26

Cerwin-Vega 26's are really excellent rock speakers that sound big but don't cost it. Each two-way system has a 12" acoustic bass speaker in its walnut enclosure.

$259 a pair

Quadraflex 66

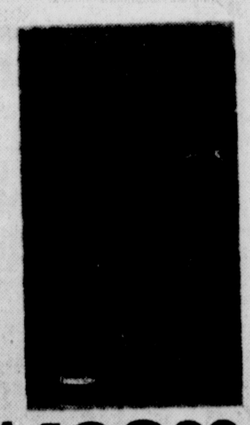

Quadraflex Model 66's are three-way acoustic suspension systems that sound absolutely great from the lowest organ notes all the way up. They're an outstanding value in their walnut cabinets.

$279.90 a pair

Quadraflex 33

Quadraflex Model 33's are two-way systems in walnut-veneer cabinets. Their eight-inch bass speaker enables them to reproduce big cabinet bass notes, and they sound clean and clear on all types of music.

$109.90 a pair

Harman-Kardon 20

You probably know Harman-Kardon's very fine receivers and you should get to know their speakers too. The Model 20's are two-way eight-inch systems in walnut veneer cabinets, and they sound good on all kinds of music.

$79.90 a pair

TransAudio 1010

When you hear the strong, clean bass of the TransAudio 1010 speakers, you'll be amazed at their moderate cost. These two-way, ten-inch systems are surely one of the best values around.

$119.90 a pair

$20 'phones for half off

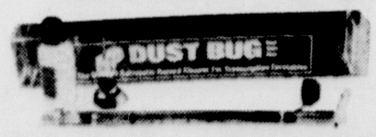

Quadraflex Model 20 headphones are comfortable to wear, pleasant to hear, and have a volume control on each earpiece. These 'phones normally sell for $19.95, so come in now and save yourself 50%.

Keep your records spotless

The Watts Dust Bug cleans your records as you play them, and also removes the static charge that attracts the dust in the first place. This very handy item usually sells for $7.00, but not during our Half Price Sale.

A great ADC cartridge for half price

It's hard to imagine any better record playing performance than the ADC 10E Mark IV's; it has a very smooth frequency response and an optimum tracking pressure of only .7 gram. These fine ADC cartridges usually sell for $50, but since this is a Half Price Sale, that's all you'll pay.

Continuation high, adult school plans anger Lincoln, Yorba parents

By ERNESTINE SISK
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Two Pomona trustees assured a small gathering of protesting citizens Thursday night that "no decisions have been made by the school board" on the controversial, proposed Yorba-Lincoln conversions.

Dr. James Bell and Ken Pine made statements defending the school administration's presentation of the plans and their own, individual openness to the community's response.

However, Roy Day, who will assume office as a new trustee in July, announced earlier in the day that he is unalterably opposed to the Lincoln conversion.

Day's statement was made at an afternoon public session during a brief heated argument with Trustee Don Donnelly over the problem of where to move the city's continuation high school.

Approximately 60 citizens, most of them parents from the most vitally affected northwest area of the city, attended the evening public hearing held in the Education Center auditorium.

Approximately 60 citizens, most of them parents from the most vitally affected northwest area of the city, attended the evening public hearing held in the Education Center auditorium.

Of the 20 citizens who spoke, all but two opposed the three alternate plans, each of which proposes that Yorba be converted into an adult or demonstration school and Lincoln be closed as an elementary school and remodeled to become the district's continuation high school, replacing Park Avenue High School.

The conversion plans were first presented publicly last week at a Board of Education meeting as partial solutions to the money problems facing the district in the light of predicted declining enrollements, need for a better continuation school plant and other considerations.

Charges by the parents that the administration had acted "secretively" about the plans were flatly denied by both Bell and Pine.

At one point, the meeting evolved into a series of caustic verbal punches at Supt. Robert Wentz.

Bell said, "I am appalled at the personal kinds of things that have been said here tonight," after one mother had labeled the proposals "Wentizisms."

Mrs. Joan Western, 180 Lincoln Ave., said she had put out the "Neighborhood Alert" dodger last wek which condemned the plan. "As a mother of five, I fought the only way I know how."

"First we had communism, then fascism, now we have Wentzism," Mrs. Western said.

Another citizen, Holland Vaughn, asked for a show of hands on "how many here tonight want to keep Dr. Wentz" as superintendent? He got little response on that question or on an alternate query, "How many would not want" to fire Wentz.

John Spiedel, downtown developer, speaking in opposition, also suggested that the board should "relieve Wentz of his position if they feel he is not capable" of providing more data for the board "to do a better job" of making its decisions.

"There is no Wentizism here," Bell told the audience. "He cannot give you any policy decision on his own. To challenge him is not completely fair. All of us are responsible."

"The board is open to all kinds of alternatives. The continuation school can be put right across the street from the Education Center, if that's where you want it. All we're saying is that it cannot remain the way it is.

"These proposals represent a lot of time and thinking. They are based on the total district problems and appear to be the things we can best do to solve our problems."

Pine said, "This is not a Dr. Wentz plan. The board directed the superintendent to list the problems and alternate solutions."

"I for one am in no panic to make a decision right away."

He said the community was told about the proposals one week after the board members themselves had been presented the plans.

"What we did not want was to have parts of the problem and parts of the solution to go out to the public, with the rumor factory misinterpreting those facts," Pine said.

"You must have trusted me to have elected me the way you did (last July and again in April). I'm disappointed that you still think we've made a decision. You have to start trusting us sometime. Maybe now would be a good beginning. No decison has been made collectively or individually."

In answer to questioning, both trustees said they didn't know when that decision would be made.

"I don't see voting on it before July 1, but the addition of a new board member (in July) is not a primary concern," Pine said.

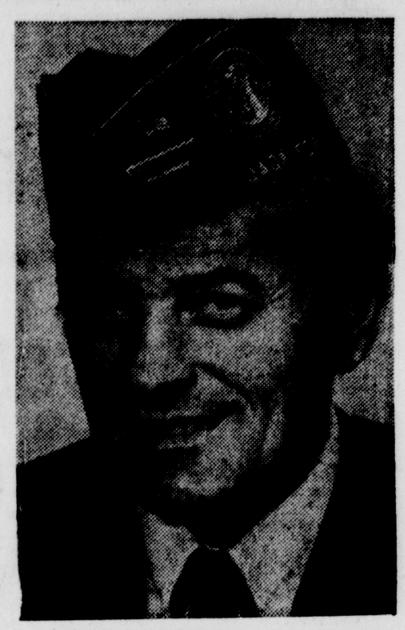

He was referring to the swearing in of Day, who was elected in April to succeed a retiring trustee, Joe Gendron, on July 1.

Day had stated at an afternoon public hearing on the same issue, "I don't believe you can sell Lincoln as a continuation school to the people in this town, and I will fight to see that it doesn't happen."

He and Donnelly, who also was re-elected in April, hotly confronted each other in a brief debate at the afternoon meeting over the question of where to put the continuation school.

"Regardless of what school we use, people (in the neighborhood) will be equally discontented. That's the human equation," Donnelly said.

Day said he would oppose the choice of Lincoln because it would "drive out the people living nearby."

GLEN HAMMAN, a past commander of the Jack Ford Chapter of Disabled American Veterans, will be guest speaker at the Pomona Elks Lodge observance of Flag Day at the lodge meeting June 13 at 8 p.m. Hamman, a paraplegic who received a medical discharge from the Air Force in 1949, will speak on patriotism. The Veterans of Foreign Wars drill team will perform.

Community relations staff grows

POMONA — City government is placing added emphasis on its community relations, or people-to-people, program, with the employment of three new members on the community relations staff.

Joining administrative assistants Clarence R. Webb and Joey G. Fuentez Jr. in the city's community relations office as administrative aides are Miss Angela Alex, 25; Ken Swanson, also 25; and Jim Fields III, 22.

Swanson and Fields both served with the military in Vietnam and Miss Alex was in the women's Army Corps from 1965 to 1968.

They were hired to fill three of the 27 full-time and part-time city job openings created with funds granted to Pomona from Los Angeles County's allocation under the federal Emergency Employment Act (EEA).

City Administrator Ora E. Lampman had requested expansion of the community relations program by assigning some of the new positions to that office.

Miss Alex is assigned to the office on a full-time basis while Swanson and Fields will work for the city part-time during the school year and full-time during the summer.

Fields' duties will be divided between the community relations office and as an aide to Asst. City Administrator Joseph Korpsak.

Lampman had said that the positions created would last from nine months to one year, depending on the availability of funds.

Miss Alex previously worked as a systems analyst for a Bethesda, Md., firm, as a social worker at a Chicago mental hospital, and for a Chicago bank.

While in the Army, she was assigned duties as an administrative specialist and as a social work counselor. She left the Army as a specialist fourth class.

Miss Alex, 850 E. Kingsley Ave., is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Bacon of Chicago.

Swanson, 475 E. Foothill Blvd., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Swanson of Azusa.

He was a student at Citrus College in Azusa and worked for General Telephone Co. before he joined the city staff.

Before that, he was in the Army for almost two years and saw duty in Texas, Arizona, Kentucky and Vietnam, where he was a telephone installer.

Fields, of West Covina, is the son of Jim Fields Jr., former Progress-Bulletin night editor and presently a graduate student at the University of Missouri, and Mrs. Barbara Helgason of Iowa.

The younger Fields is a sophomore at Mt. San Antonio College where he served as student body president. He also attended Pasadena City College and East Carolina University.

He was in the Marine Corps for three years, including a one-year assignment in Vietnam.

The City Council in March authorized Lampman to enter into an agreement whereby the county would provide more than $100,000 of its share of EEA funds to permit the city to create nine full-time and the same number of part-time jobs for Vietnam era veterans and an additional nine full-time positions for persons on welfare.

Prepaid death plan cancels Social Security burial fee

Almost all people who work for a wage pay into the Social Security fund. A portion of that fund is designated for use as a "death benefit fund" to be used toward payment of funeral expenses at the death of the wage earner. It must be applied for by the spouse or heirs of the deceased to be used. Otherwise it remains in the Social Security fund.

In purchasing a prepaid funeral plan, I learned that anyone buying such a plan cannot make use of the death benefit fund to help pay for the full cost.

I phoned the Social Securty office in Pomona and asked if any form could be signed enabling me to use the fund for its intended purpose. The answer was, "No, there is no way possible you could sign anything like that before you passed away." I assured the party on the other end of the phone that "I sure could not sign it AFTER I was dead." Still no deal.

I did speak with a representative for Congressman George Brown Jr. about this matter in hopes that the wheels of Congress might begin to move in favor of helping this situation.—I.K., Chino.

A member of the Social Security staff confirmed that the benefits cannot be used to help pay for prepaid funeral plans.

He said that it is "strictly a legislative matter" and you are moving in the right direction by addressing your congressman if you want the law changed.

The money, he said, goes to the spouse. If there is no spouse, it goes to the person who pays the burial expenses or to the funeral home.

FOLLOW-UP:

P.M. of Claremont, the airman who is in the service and is simultaneously a veteran because of a clerical mistake, has now obtained his DD 214 form and can receive his veteran's benefits. He is making preparations to begin schooling.

After an Action Line letter to National Personnel Records (Military Personnel Records), St. Louis, Mo., and an Action Line account on May 4 of P.M.'s plight, someone in the office of the secretary of the Air Force, Washington, D. C., called him to explain the red tape that had to be cut. P.M. was told it would take about eight months to officially straighten out his status, even though he is being permitted VA benefits now.

$3,250 in fire damage to garage

POMONA — Small children playing with matches set a fire in the garage of Clifford Wilson Jr., 244 W. Ninth St., Thursday morning, causing $3,250 damage to the structure.

Firemen said two girls, both 5, were playing with matches in the northwest portion of the garage. The contents of the garage were lost in the blaze and most of the structure was charred. The fire was reported at 10:32 a.m.

Gym class for tots slated by YMCA

POMONA — A five-week gym class for boys and girls 2½ to 5 will be offered beginning July 27 by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

It will offer physical education designed to meet the physical and motor growth and development of the preschooler.

The class will meet on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. or 1:30 p.m. Children will be asked to wear tennis shoes and loose play clothing.

The cost is $7 per child.

Reservations may be made by calling 623-6433.

Bridge club to dine and play

POMONA — The Pomona-Covina Bridge Unit will hold a dinner and bridge night at 6 p.m. June 17 at the Assistance League Center, 655 N. Palomares St.

The dinner will be at 6 p.m. with duplicate bridge play to follow. The dinner and bridge play are open to the public.

For further information or reservations, persons may call Mrs. Pat Nixon at 626-6766.

Citizen group unites to recycle valuable refuse

POMONA — Mrs. Sarah P. Millier of the Garden State Paper Co. is a founding member of the California Committee for Resource Recovery (CCRR), formed to encourage cities to reclaim paper, glass, aluminum, plastics, tin and other valuable natural resources.

These resources, CCRR claims, now are being dumped into landfills and lost for future re-use.

CCRR was founded in Whittier by representatives from 12 groups. It has mailed invitations to other organizations statewide to join in this first unified citizen movement in Californa to conserve natural resources through resource recovery from sold waste for recycling purposes.

Leonard Bayless of the Rio Hondo Sierra Club and a member of the CCRR steering committee, said its purpose is to prevent further waste of natural resources and to alert the public to the importance of resource recovery concepts.

He said CCRR will work with city planners and municipal officials for a better method of waste disposal than the use of landfills and cooperate with cities in planning resource recovery systems.

Mrs. Miller is serving as coordinator for CCRR, which will hold its next meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Whittier High School's general services building.

Opinion

Freedom of press is under attack

Even as the journalism fraternity is congratulating itself on its exposure of the Watergate mess and the administration is, to put it mildly, on the defensive because of it, comes a warning that government activities continue to threaten freedom of the press, in the wildest meaning of the term.

Government measures attacking the economic capability of the television networks are just as much a threat to journalistic freedom as efforts to stifle free expression, says Robert W. Sarnoff, chairman of RCA.

And an "attack on one news medium," he warns, is an attack on all."

In his own medium, he told a recent NBC Television Network Affiliates convention in Los Angeles, the attack is in the form of attempts to weaken the economic structure of networking under the pretext of "localism" which, he says, could impede the flow of independent information to the people.

He is not, he says, suggesting that the government has adopted such a design. "But I am concerned that an atmosphere has developed where networks are perceived as fair game."

In noncommercial television, he says, we have been witnessing another variation. There, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, controlled directly by government appointees, has been dismantling national news and public affairs programming.

As for the broader threat to journalistic freedom, Sarnoff cites the "unprecedented spectacle" of high federal officials attacking the national news media in general, the increasingly common device of subjecting investigative reporters to subpoenas and the threat of jail sentences and the use of official secrecy as a cloak for official mistakes and derelictions.

"Whichever of these different means of suppression is employed, the effect is to deprive the public of what it needs to know in a free society," he says.

"What the gvernment wants is a tamed press," alleges Sarnoff," and its efforts to make the news media docile and accommodating rely heavily on the technique of intimidation."

But he adds, "This technique works only against those who are willing to be timid."

Could be a costly precedent

Ford didn't have a better idea this time—Argentine revolutionaries did.

Rather than kidnap company officials and hold them for ransom which can be a messy business — one attempt to kidnap a Ford executive failed—the Trotskyite People's Revolutionary Party hit upon the idea of extorting $1 million from the company just with the threat of kidnaping, bombing and other harassing activities.

The money, which Ford felt it had no choice but to come across with, will go to buy ambulances for hospitals and food and school supplies for slum children.

Revolutionary groups in other countries will no doubt be quick to recognize a good thing when they see it. It certainly beats going through such tedious legal processes as winning elections, establishing governments and passing laws to appropriate the assets of foreign, particularly American, businesses which, in the eyes of the revolutionaries, are the cause of all their social problems anyway.

It could become a regular thing. If Ford can afford $1 million this time, why not $2 million next time? And think of all the other companies ripe for plucking to greater or lesser degree.

Actually, the idea is not all that new. In criminal circles it's called the protection racket.

The Argentine revolutionaries have simply elevated gangsterism to a new and unprecedented height.

No. 1 rating for Watergate

Viewer reaction to the Senate's televised Watergate hearings suggests that even the Second Coming would upset a lot of people if it occurred in prime time or interrupted afternoon soap operas.

Stations in cities across the nation report that most people writing or calling in have protested the preemption of their favorite programs.

It's true that people are always readier to complain about something they don't like than to praise something they do like. It's also true that a lot of people may simply be fed up with Watergate.

But it may also be wondered how any of those who consistently criticize the medium for being devoted solely to peddling detergents and deodorants to the greatest number have taken the trouble to let their local outlets know that they appreciate this effort to provide a public service.

FBI doing chores for White House

WASHINGTON — The FBI has been badly burned by the revelations that it has been misused by White House aides. Yet believe it or not, the FBI is still doing political chores for the White House.

FBI agents are quietly investigating those "Vietnam Veterans Against the War" who worked in the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern. This is part of a desperate search, apparently, for evidence that would somehow justify the bugging and break-ins authorized by the White House during the 1972 campaign.

As we reported May 23, trusted presidential aides are trying to put together evidence that subversives were conspiring in 1972 to defeat President Nixon and to undermine the political system. To assist in this research, the White House apparently has enlisted the FBI.

FBI agent David Rarity, for example, has questioned Vietnam veterans who worked in McGovern's Watergate "veteran's affairs" office. His appearance coincided with White House interest in this sort of research. Rarity asked them about any possible subversive activities within the group.

Rarity's questions

"He asked me if any planning was done out of the Watergate for demonstrations at the Republican national convention," one veteran told us. "He also asked a lot about the Socialist Worker's Party — if there were any people associated with them around the office."

Other veterans interviewed by Rarity said he asked them the same questions. He also asked them to identify any "troublemakers" in the organization.

Watergate conspirator James McCord testified last Tuesday that he was concerned about potential violence at the Republican national convention because he believed several radical organizations were operating within the McGovern campaign. The need to discover the extent of these operations, McCord said, formed the justification for bugging Democratic headquarters at the Watergate.

Many of the scare stories came from Robert Mardian, then the Justice Department's internal security chief, who worked himself into a state of political paranoia. He deluged his superiors with warnings of civil disorders and political disruptions.

Highly inflated

We have obtained access to some of these hush-hush Justice Department reports and close examination disclosed that Mardian's dire warnings were highly inflated.

The vets have told us that some who were recently questioned by the FBI had been attached to Army intelligence during their Vietnam duty.

"None of us were very high up in the McGovern operation," a vet told my associate Jack Cloherty. "We mostly stuffed envelopes and organized block parties."

Rarity told those he interviewed his investigation was prompted by a recent American Serviceman's Union demonstration. The FBI refused to comment.

DAVID POLING, D.D.

The church story by the numbers

It is that time of year when many churches report on membership, finance and institutional activity. This past week the United Presbyterian Church and the Roman Catholic Church published statistics for 1972. The contrasts and similarities of these two Christian bodies, and how well they are doing in the secular society, make for interesting discussion.

The Catholics reported (through the official directory published by P. J. Kenedy and Sons) an increase in total membership by 69,437, putting them at 48,460,427 in the United States. During this same period, Presbyterians noted a drop of 104,612, sending their 50 state total to 2,916,757. No one has suggested that the Presbyterians loss is a Catholic gain, but the Kenedy tally does indicate 73,925 converts for 1972. The Official Catholic Directory notes that this is the smallest number of converts since 1939.

Catholics report a decrease in the number of clergy—452. Presbyterians point to an increase of 175. Grand totals of ordained clergy are 56,969 and 13,692 respectively.

Both churches sustained sharp losses in the number of baptisms, the number of pupils receiving religious instruction, and the number of candidates preparing for the ministry.

The Catholics closed more than 400 parochial schools in this country and saw this enrollment drop by 263,488. Student enrollment at all Catholic institutions is a little more than four million for 1972-1973. It was six million in 1965.

Presbyterians surprised themselves and their friends with a sharp increase in giving. The social conflicts (racial confrontation, Vietnam, Angela Davis) of other years may have affected membership and the growth of congregational life. Yet the dollars flowed in at an amazing rate, more than $372 million for '72, a jump of more than four million. Much of this new cash is being spent at the local and regional level.

It is unfortunate that the Roman Catholic system has never made public a unified financial accounting. Nor are membership statistics that convincing—12 dioceses reported no changes, plus or minus and one suspects the regular "even numbering" of some official returns.

Beyond statistics and comparisons it is evident that the Christian community is faced with an increasingly secular society, an end to automatic church growth and a new definition of what it means to be a believer in the late 20th century. And some are already saying, fewer people but more vitality and vision.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . . . letters

Fair's fair

I would like to say this about Watergate. While I, an ordinary citizen, am dismayed at learning what has apparently gone on there, I cannot understand the zealous glee with which the Democrats and the liberal news media have pursued it.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the ballot box stuffing in the 1960 elections, which put John Kennedy into office.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the Otto Otepka affair, involving bugging and mail rifling.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the Bay of Pigs fiasco, which John Kennedy took full blame for, and was called heroic by the press for having done so.

I wish there had been an investigation into the "Cuban Missile Crisis," after which we ceded many of our foreign bases to the communists.

I wish a freed Daniel Ellsberg would steal the Warren Report on the assassination of John Kennedy. The public has a right to know.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the bugging of Barry Goldwater's election headquarters by the Democrats when he ran against Lyndon Johnson in 1964.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the Bobby Baker involvement with Lyndon Johnson.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the Billy Sol Estes involvement with Lyndon Johnson.

I wish there had been a full scale public investigation into the Chappaquiddick affair involving Teddy Kennedy.

Where were the outraged Democrats and liberal news media. Did they fill the air with it for months? Did they stage a three-ring circus on all TV networks so no one could possible miss it? Did they scream that the public has a right to know?

They yawned.

Don't you get the feeling that President Nixon is their target, and they feel they finally might have something with which to stoke the fires of their hate-Nixon campaign? Their credibility would be greater if they would report with equal diligence wrong-doings on both sides of the political aisle. I believe they are trying to undermine our confidence in our two-party system, our government, at a time when a Republican is in office so their way will be clear in 1976. — KATHRYN WOLTER.

Gossip for today

It's all very confusing!

On the one hand the police are now patrolling beaches near San Francisco in order to enforce laws against nude bathing. On the other, according to a well known sports magazine, swimming in the nude is the best way to improve racing time.

Apparently you're damned if you do and you're damned if you don't. And that, in all too many instances, seems to be the theory on which the world is being run today.

Germans fear U.S. withdrawal

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

BONN, West Germany — As the German press belatedly began publishing the Watergate revelations, high government officials were publicly disdaining interest in the American scandal but privately placing frantic calls to the top level at the U.S. embassy to ask this question: how badly will it hurt President Nixon?

That concern stems not from abundant affection here for Mr. Nixon but a complete dependence on him to keep a heavy commitment of U.S. troops in Germany. If politically maimed by the Watergate scandal, the Germans fear, Mr. Nixon might not be able to fight off demands for massive troop withdrawals, with frightening consequences for the fate of Western Europe.

This fear of U.S. disengagement, not overpublicized reports of anti-Yankee feeling among Germans, is the major problem here today. Whatever public irritation there may be over 212,000 U.S. troops in Germany a generation after World War II, the intense desire by Chancellor Willy Brandt's government to keep every one of them is not in question.

The reason is an old one. Only American troops, the German officials know, pose the nuclear threat that successfully counters massive Soviet military power in Central Europe. Even if replaced by European troops (which would be doubtful), this American deterrence would be gone.

Skeptical of troop reductions

Consequently, the Brandt government is not only publicly appalled by congressional talk of a unilateral U.S. troop withdrawal but privately skeptical of what may come out of current NATO-Warsaw Pact talks in Vienna over mutual troop reductions in Central Europe. "Quite frankly," one German policymaker told us, we fear watever happens in Vienna because any agreement can only benefit the Russians. We hope the negotiations last a very long time."

If the Vienna talks result in even a relatively modest withdrawal of U.S. troops (say, 10,000 to 20,000), the Germans will be distressed. Any such reduction, they say, should come out of logistical troops rather than the 4 1-3 U.S. Army combat divisions in Europe — a feat considered impossible by the U.S. military.

What really terrifies Bonn, however, is the prospect that the Senate isolationists will prevail against a weakened Mr. Nixon to force a massive unilateral withdrawal of 100,000 troops or even more. A high ranking military policymaker in the German defense ministry has a frightening, two-step scenario of what quite likely would happen in the event of such a unilateral pull-up.

Phase One, according to this scenario, would be a Western European effort — probably under French leadership — to build a European defense establishment with nuclear punch. Almost surely, this effort would fizzle in a short time, leaving no substitute for the departed U.S. troops.

Out of that vacuum would come phase two, according to this official: "the procession to Moscow." He feels that the NATO nations, stripped of a convincing military deterrent, would be subject to the political domination of the Soviet Union. This threat of a bloodless Soviet conquest of Europe, while intended as a chilling argument against U.S. troop withdrawal, is the honestly held opinion of many officials not only here but elsewhere in Western Europe.

Communists getting tougher

Giving special point to German worries is some apprehension over what follows Brandt's ostpolitik, his immensely popular policy of easing tensions with Communist East Germany and the Soviet Union. In private, some officials feel the Communists are getting steadily tougher in fleshing out agreements on Berlin and links between the two Germanies. Indeed, they fear the Communists would get all the tougher in the absence of U.S. troops. Ostpolitik, they say, depends on U.S. troops.

Against these paramount considerations, irritation by the prosperous German public over 212,000 American GIs is trivial. Lulled by ostpolitik, younger Germans see no reason for the Americans being around. The GIs, impoverished by the devalued dollar and revalued mark, are no economic attraction to German merchants.

Moreover, U.S. military authorities exacerbated the situation recently with an ill-timed attempt to purchase land for maneuvers in this cramped, overpopulated country. U.S. Ambassador Martin Hollenbrand immediately got the military to postpone all such purchases indefinitely. Simultaneously, the military is trying hard to soften other annoyances, such as helicopter flights over populated areas.

All such annoyances, softened or not, are irrelevant to German officials frightened over the implications of a U.S. withdrawal — a nightmare that must be viewed as a possibility in the light of the poisonous marriage of Watergate and the new isolationism. To prevent such a catastrophe, the Germans and other Europeans may have to do more than they want to make it easier economically for the United States to continue its U.S. troop commitment — the subject of a future column from Europe.

Recycling center support tested

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Community Council is seeking community reaction to the proposed establishment of a recycling center at the Spadra Landfill on Valley Boulevard.

President Chris Schaefer says the council is considering making a survey of 20 civic organizations in the community to see what type of support the center might gain.

The county department of sanitation has helped many communities set up such ecological programs, she said.

The council is thinking in terms of asking the civic organizations to agree to staff the center, taking turns of perhaps a month at a time, with part of the profits from the operation going to the participating organizations.

The center would limit recycling to aluminum, glass and newspapers, Mrs. Schaefer said.

The council will seek to involve Walnut and the Mt. San Antonio College and Cal Poly areas in the program, too, she added.

Anyone interested in the program may call Virginia Pitts, chairman of the council's ecology committee, at 595-5633.

Troop 303 girls plan birthday treat for mentally retarded

DIAMOND BAR — Girl Scout Cadette Troop 303 members are preparing a June "Happy Birthday Party" for patients of the Glenhaven Convalescent Hospital for Mentally Retarded, Pomona, ending their year's special service project.

The girls have been visitung the hospital each month, bringing refreshments they have baked and decorated and special gifts for all the patients whose birthdays fall within the current month.

Sometimes they've dressed as clowns and entertained the patients, who range in age from 10 to 65, with songs and games.

In addition, they have made books of cloth, containing objects which the blind patients can read by touching, small pillows and doll clothes.

The purpose of the project is to help scouts develop understanding for mentally handicapped people of all ages and develop skills for bringing pleasure to the patients' lives.

In so doing, they are earning their second requirement in the category of social dependability.

Members participating in the project are Denise Ackland, Kelly Amos, Amy Foster, Liz Gitner, Kay Gunderson, Lisa Gustafson, Kim Guy, Cassandra Haapala, Desiree Hildebrand, Lisa Hirsch, Janice Ington, Cindy Markman, Lori McDowell, Nancy McFadden, Susan Muse, Debbie Nixt, Vicki Offerdahl, Debbie Perry, Barbara Randall, Terry Robinson, Diane Rydzewski, Charisse Samuels and Liz Vollmer.

Mrs. Ernest Amos is the troop leader. Mrs. Jack Offerdahl and Mrs. Martin Takeuchi are the assistant leaders.

Schabarum, wife guests of R.H. Coordinating Council

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — First Dist. Supervisor Peter Schabarum and his wife will be guests of honor at the installation dinner of the Rowland Heights Community Coordinating Council Wednesday night.

The meeting will be held at the Pomona National Golf Club, 20055 Colima Road. A cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8.

Officers to be installed are Mrs. William Rosas, president; John Bridley, first vice president; Robert Turner, second vice president; Mrs. J. M. Randall, third vice president; Mrs. Robert Rice, treasurer; and Mrs. George Julian, historian.

The guest list also includes Mrs. Pat Driezler, president, and Mrs. Shirley Abrams, vice president, of the Federation of Community Coordinating Councils, Los Angeles County, to which the Rowland Heights civic organization belongs.

The principal projects of the council this year, according to Mrs. Rosas, have been the presentations to county planners and the Board of Supervisors concerning a master plan for the community and the Holiday Basket Program, serving the community's needy families.

Camps for tots and youths slated by D.B.-Walnut Y

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar-Walnut Branch YMCA is offering a summer Kiddie Kamp for toddlers and a day camp program for older children.

The day camp will be held at Webb School in Claremont, in cooperation with three other branches of the Pomona Valley YMCA. Transportation from the Diamond Bar-Walnut area will be provided on a limited basis.

Ten one-week sessions will be conducted, beginning June 25. The daily program will include horseback riding, arts and crafts, games, tennis, beach trips, swimming and other activities.

The Claremont YMCA, which has used the Webb facilities in previous years, has developed a quality day camping program there, according to Lynn Franklin of the Pomona Valley YMCA staff.

More information about the day camp may be obtained by calling 595-5015.

The Kiddie Kamp is for boys and girls, 2½ through 5. It will meet at the Diamond Bar-Walnut Y Monday through Friday, mornings or afternoons, beginning June 25. An extended hours program is available for working parents.

Activities include arts and crafts, music, games, field trips, cooking, waterplay and swimming and the Kindergym program.

Each two-week session will have a different theme with a coinciding major event. Experienced nursery school teachers will be among the staff.

The program will run through Aug. 31. Each camp is limited to 15 children. Fee for a two-week session is $15 for Y members and $20 for nonmembers. Special rates are available for the extended hours program.

Registration information may be obtained by calling 595-7485.

The Diamond Bar Y is also accepting registrations now for its 1973 fall preschool program, which offers a two-day-a-week school for children from 2½-4.

It also is offered in the mornings and afternoons and is a mother participation program in which mothers are asked to assist one day every six weeks.

The fee is $17 a month for the 2½-hour morning class and $15 a month for the two-hour afternoon class.

A one-day program also is offered on Fridays, in which children may be enrolled for a third day of participation for $6.50 extra, or $8 a month as a single attendance.

The Friday program is known as the Kiddie Club and includes the Kindergym class, in which the toddlers are taken tothe Pomona YMCA for gymnastic events.

Commission okays tract map, homes

The Regional Planning Commission has approved an 81 lot Rowland Heights Tract map and a parcel map for three homes located west of Diamond Bar Boulevard and north of Grand Avenue.

The Diamond Bar Development Corp. is developer of the three homes, the initial construction on a 71-acre parcel.

The commission approved the tract map for 81 single family lots in Rowland Heights.

Walnut budget shows funds for civic center, park development

By JOE FARLEY
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Funds for a full-time city planner, and a civic center and $51,136 for park development are included in a proposed 1973-74 city budget under study here.

The budget, listing total expenditures of $727,087, includes no increase on Walnut's current 87 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax rate.

City officials have been able to maintain the current tax rate despite the additional park, planning and community center costs due to a building boom here, City Manager Andy Lazzaretto explained.

Additional sales and use taxes, building permit and subdivision and construction filing fees and the city's $60,000 share of federal revenue sharing funds offset the new budget additions, Lazzaretto said.

The city currently contracts with the Lampman and Associates planning firm and the Los Angeles County Planning Department for planning work, which cost an estimated $23,310 for the current fiscal year.

With a full-time planner earning a recommended $9,225, the 1973-74 planning cost total would drop to $15,240. "Where the part-time association with a consultant was once quite adequate, with the increase in work a full-time professional is required. Of great importance are the numerous elements involved with subdivision planning and execution," Lazzaretto said.

The proposed budget calls for the apportionment of $24,650 for improvements within existing city parks and $26,486 for development of fututre parks. With maintenance, supplies and services added the total proposed park budget is $84,110.

The $26,486 figure for park development will supplement park dedication fees home developers must pay.

"The third major change reflected in this year's budget is a specific appropriation for the acquisition and development of a civic center for the city," Lazzaretto said. "For many years, successive Walnut City Councils have appropriated funds in order to fulfill this goal."

As of July 1, 1972, the civic center fund totaled $60,626. The 1972-73 appropriation is $16,940. This will be boosted by a $5,000 appropriation during 1974 and revenue sharing funds through July 1974 of $59,740 and general fund balance money of $59,547 for a fund total of $201,853.

He said the civic center construction would not be possible, however, without the federal revenue sharing funds.

"These funds coupled with thos monies which had previously been allocated for the civic center fund wl enable the city to proceed on a soun financial footing with the development, Lazzaretto said.

Total general income revenues unde the budget will drop from the 1972-73 e: timated total of $382,647 to $354,986 fo the next fiscal year, according to th budget. Restricted revenues, such a state gas tax, revenue sharing and fede: al grants, will total $217,128 during th 1973-74 fiscal year, also down from th current $232,301.

Police protection costs, contracte through the Los Angeles County Sheriff' Department will be $154,320, up from thi year $142,558 total. Recreation costs which include a summer day camp sports leagues, athletic and cultura classes and bus trips to varicus event will jump from the current $3,075 to $14,425, under the current budget proposal.

City councilmen will hold budget study sessions at the Walnut City Hall at 7 a.m. on June 7 and 14 to finalize the document before July 1.

Letter blitz by airport foes on way

WALNUT — City, county and state officials should notice a sudden increase in mail postmarked from Walnut this week as they receive from 800 to 1,000 letters opposing an airport planned near here.

Citizens Against the Airport, a group opposing a general aviation airport planned for the City of Industry, launched the massive letter-writing campaign during the Memorial Day weekend.

"All the letters were personally written. Some were very nice and some weren't. We expect an answer to every letter," Mrs. Christine Gilbert, antiairport leader, said.

County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, Assemblyman Joseph Montoya, the Federal Aviation Administration, the City of Industry, Walnut, West Covina and other officials will all receive mail, Mrs. Gilbert said.

The letter-writing campaign is one of several means of protest used by the anti-airport group in its drive against the proposed airport. It has also held two public forums and picketed industry City Hall.

The Stadord-Yabara Homeowners Association of Rowland Heights donated postage for the letters and El Monte printer Dan Morales gave all the stationery.

The anti-airport group is waiting for an environmental impact report from consultants for Industry on the proposed general aviation airport before taking any additional steps in its protest.

"We can't do anything until Industry City Manager Graham Ritchie lets go of that survey," Mrs. Gilbert said. The environmental impact report, which will determine the airport's effect on the total Walnut Valley, should be completed in the next month, she said.

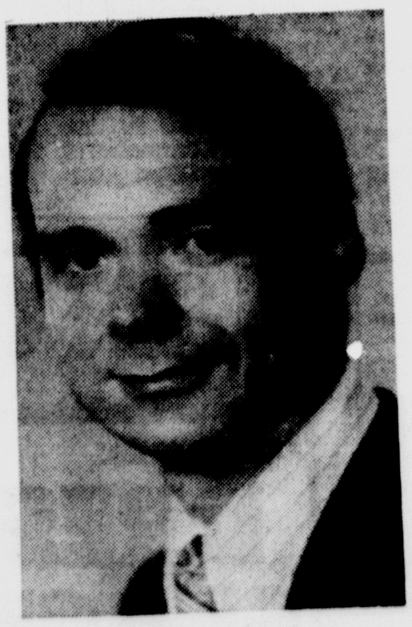

The facility is planned under phase two of Industry's urban redevelopment plan. Although it would cater only to small commuter service aircraft and not accommodate heavy cargo or jet planes, the homeowners contend it will add to air and noise pollution and cause a drop in property values.

The current airport proposal is for a single 4,000-by 100-foot runway in a small flat valley surrounded on two sides by hilly Walnut, West Covina and lower Diamond Bar residential areas.

WESTERN MEETS ENGLISH

Deanne Noelte, in the western style garb, and Susan Aubrey, in English, will participate in the Walnut Valley Riders horse show Sunday at the Walnut City Park arena. The show begins at 8 a.m.

GERHARD P. SCHNEIDER

Walnut man is promoted

WALNUT — Gerhard P. Schneider of Walnut has been promoted to assistant trust tax officer with Security Pacific Bank's trust department.

Schneider was formerly unit supervisor with the trust department. A native of Berlin and an alumnus of Technical School for Bank and Insurance Business, he joined Security Pacific Bank as tax accountant in 1969.

Walnut riders to hold day-long horse contest

WALNUT — The Walnut Valley Riders will present 31 classes of western and English horsemanship at their seventh annual Spring Horse Show Sunday.

The show will begin at 8 a.m. and run throughout the day at the Walnut City Park arena. P. W. Moreno will judge the show and present trophies for first place and ribbons to second through sixth place riders. High point trophies will also be awarded to best all-around western and English riders.

"We have had many successful horse shows and this promises to be the best. Plenty to eat will be on sale at the snack bar and the diverse classes will make this another rewarding day," Hal Sturim, Walnut Valley Riders president, said.

All entrants must bring registration papers to the show and children under 18 need letters of permission from parents or guardian to enter.

Show chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Drex Smith. Ring steward will be Corinne Leslie; announcer is Nancy Bennett; sponsors, Norma Layton; publicity, Ariel Flynn; registration, Lois Gunn; snack bar, Norma and Gene Layton; arena preparation, Randy Bennett; program, Jack Gunn and mailing list management, Jeanine Copland, Peggy Salcido, Anita Sturium and Lorraine Plant.

Adult school art displayed

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — The public is invited to attend the third annual art fair of the La Puente Valley Adult School being held today, Saturday and Sunday at the Sunset Hills Club, 16222 Soriano Drive.

Exhibitions in oil painting, water colors, sculpture, woodwork, home decorative arts and ceramics will be on display from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily.

Heinz Rosien, well-known local artist who is coordinating the festival, said many of the works will be on sale to the public.

RESOLUTION NO. 73-104

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF POMONA, CALIFORNIA, CALLING FOR BIDS FOR CONFECTIONARY CONCESSION ON CITY PARK PROPERTY OF THE CITY OF POMONA.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Pomona, California, as follows:

SECTION 1. That bids be called for the award of a confectionary concession contract for the sale of confections, ice cream and other related products upon City Park Property excluding Little League Parks in the City of Pomona.

SECTION 2. That notice be given prior to opening of bids by publishing a copy of this resolution for ten consecutive days in the Progress-Bulletin newspaper, a newspaper published in the City of Pomona. Such bids shall be received by the City for the award of a confectionary concession on City Park Property of the City of Pomona for three (3) years, commencing on the 1st day of June, 1973; and that said bidders shall bid a minimum of $500.00 per annum fee or 12 per cent of gross receipts to the City, whichever is greater. The first year's payment shall be paid upon execution of said contract. Copies of the proposed contract are on file in the Office of the City Clerk, and prospective bidders upon requests may obtain such copies from the Chambers of the Pomona City Clerk's Office. The bid shall be accompanied by cash, a cashier's check payable to the City of Pomona, or a bidder's bond in the amount of 10 per cent of the first year's payment. If the successful bidder refuses to sign said contract, the cash, a cashier's check, or bidder's bond shall be forfeited. Bids shall be opened on the 4th day of June, 1973, at the Council Hall, at 8:00 p.m. The contract shall be awarded to the highest responsible bidder, providing the Council may reject any or all bids; and, further, any bidder may increase his bid in increments in the amount of $100.00 by oral bidding at said meeting.

SECTION 3. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this resolution and shall cause notice to be published as herein set forth, and thereafter this resolution shall be in full force and effect.

APPROVED AND PASSED this 7th day of May, 1973.

Housekeeping birds produce no offspring

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I am having the same trouble with my pair of white fantail pigeons this year that I had with them last year. They go through all of the stages, they set up housekeeping, build a nest, the female lays her eggs, but then — nothing. Even though they both work on incubating those eggs, nothings seems to happen. They never hatch. Why, oh, why do you suppose? A friend says this may be because of some deficiency. They get fresh, high quality food and all the other extras pigeons are supposed to get, so how would I know what deficiency it might be? — S. S.

Dear S. S.: The deficiency would be obvious if you knew both of your birds were females, wouldn't it? Consider that simply because you have two birds doesn't mean you have a true pair. Often two birds of the same sex, confined together, will try to set up housekeeping but there are limitatinns as to how far they can go, of course. If you do have two females, no matter how many eggs one or both of them lays, or how energetic their incubation efforts, there is no way for them to encourage nonfertile eggs to hatch.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Blossom, our minature poodle, is beginning to get that "middle age spread." Maybe this is to be expected at six years of age but we would like to keep her trim if we can. We would rather keep her down by exercise than by cutting down her food. Is this feasible? If it is, can we exercise her until she is tired? We have a safe place to do it. — R. R.

Dear R. R.: Exercise without dieting would generally be futile and perhaps dangerous in the really obese canine. However, one with only a little around the middle may respond very nicely without calorie cutting, particularly if the amount of exercise is substantially increased. Presumably, calorie cutting shouldn't be necessary for Blossom, but by all means let her doctor make the final decision on this. In the first place, it is inadvisable suddenly and drastically to increase the amount of exercise a dog is getting without the doctor's OK. In the older animal, complications from sudden heavy exercise can range from arthritis to circulatory impairment to kidney disease. Even for a comparatively young canine, heavy exercise may be contraindicted because of a joint problem or some other condition. In the poodle, it would probably be in the "trick knee" category.

Forest grove marks Vietnam war casualties

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A living memorial to the 6,000 Californians killed in Vietnam will rise over the centuries in the Angeles National Forest.

The Association of the U.S. Army announced Tuesday that it will plant on a 25 acre site 5,000 feet up in the mountains northeast of Los Angeles a tree for every Californian who died in the conflict.

The cedars, firs, pines and redwoods on the site will not reach maturity for 200 years or more.

"This is not a memorial of steel and stone," said retired Maj. Gen. F.C. Mencaccy, chairman of the association's Los Angeles chapter.

"It will be 'a living cathedral' . . . a memorial by which those who gave their lives will be remembered for all time," he said.

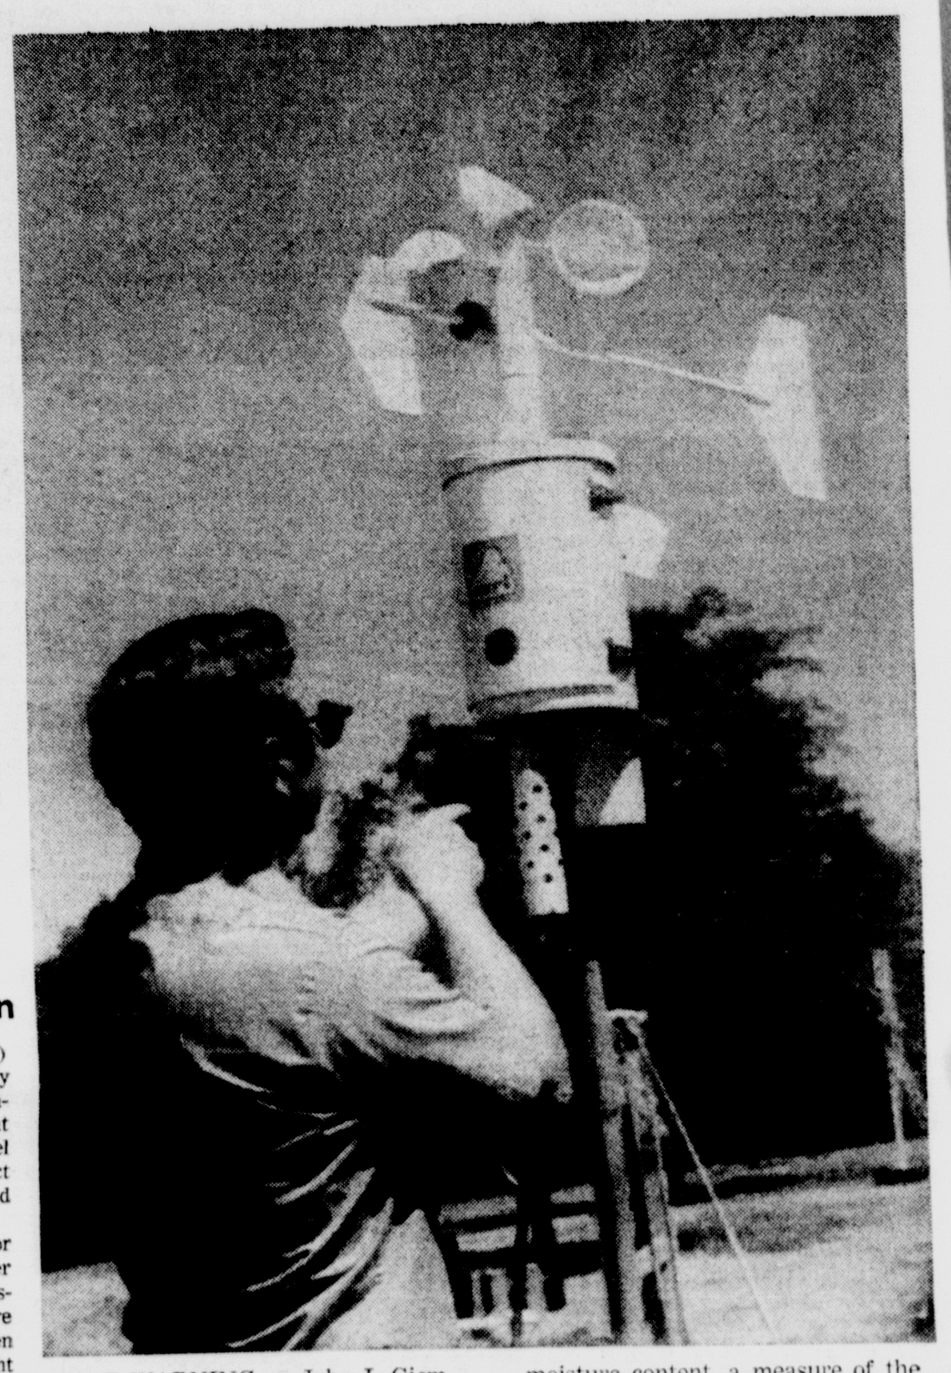

The seeding, to be carried out with the cooperation of the Forest Service, will cost about $2,500, he said.

Sheriff's own bugging funds draw opposition

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The city council Tuesday urged the Alabama legislature to defeat two bills that would give County Sheriff Mel Bailey authority to conduct wiretaps and a $50,000 fund for undercover operations.

"I don't want our city or county to turn into another Watergate," Councilman Russell Yarborough said before he and fellow councilmen voted unanimously to fight the bills, which were drafted by Bailey and offered by state Rep. Bobby Timmons.

The money for the undercover operations would be raised by increasing the county's pistol permit fee. The fund would be independent of normal county budget procedures.

FIRE WARNING — John I. Giem, space technology engineer at Ames Research Center, Mt. View, Calif., checks an unmanned instrument that warns foresters when the probability of fire is high. This unit, now in service for the California Division of Forestry at Sunol, checks its surroundings and passes information on wind velocity and direction, air fuel moisture content, a measure of the flammability of forest floor litter, to forestry headquarters in Sacramento, via NASA satellite, tracking stations, and the Ames Research Center. Forestry and space experts are studying a system which would use the detectors over a wide area to inform of fire danger.

Computer for homes uses telephones

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A telephone computer linkup that allows one to pay bills without writing checks and automatically reminds one of a spouse's birthday goes into operation at Seattle-First National Bank next week.

Billed as the first of its kind in the nation, the bank's telephone computing service also will take care of the family's bookkeeping and every two weeks will mail a print-out summarizing expenditures for that month and the year-to-date.

The program operates through any touch-tone telephone and each customer is assigned a code number that gives him access to 100 minutes of computer time per month. The computer linkup can be used as a personal calculator to solve vexing math problems.

"One of the aspects of this service of which we are most proud is that the user controls the computer from his or her home," said Joseph W. Gelzer, president of Telephone Computer Service. "It does the funtions the user wants, keeps the information the user wants it to —not the other way around."

The computer also can be used to store the serial numbers of valuable items and credit cards and to keep track of servicing intervals, and warranty expirations. A printout can be supplied to notify law enforcement officials of theft or loss.

And the computer will keep track of important dates and appointments for the subscriber and will send a calendar of upcoming events every two weeks.

Cost of the computer hookup is $6.50 per month for a household.

Each customer is assigned a personal entry code number and an operations manual. Officials said no previous experience with a computer is necessary to operate the system.

Suit airs auto design priorities

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A car designer for Chrysler Corp. testified Thursday that if the company had to make a choice, it would design its care to protect occupants rather than pedestrians.

Charles W. Kelly, Detroit, testified in a $1.6 million suit against the firm brought by Scott Baker, a Brisbane, Calif., carpenter who charges he suffered extensive injuries when he was hit in 1967 by a protruding chrome "eyebrow" above the headlight of a Dodge Coronet.

Kelly testified about a deposition taken from him in 1971 in which he was asked if Chrysler would "give more consideration to protecting your headlights than in decreasing the severity of injuries to pedestrians."

He answered in the deposition that "because of the incidence of accidents, we would have to lean in the direction of protecting the lights, because there are more incidents of occupant and other accidents than there are pedestrian (accidents)."

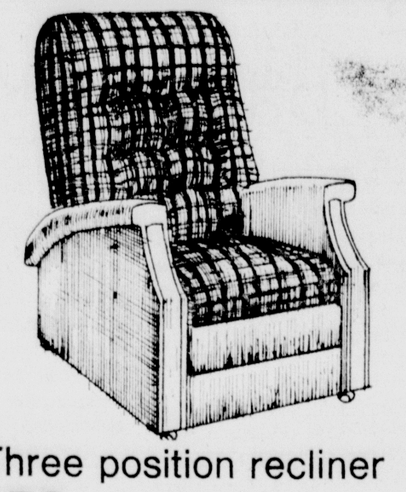

Questioned by Baker's attorney, Kelly said in court that his earlier answer was hypothetical, and, "If we had to make a choice between functional design for occupant safety or for pedestrian safety, we would lean toward the occupants because occupant accidents are four to one over pedestrians."

Kelly also said that headlights had to be surrounded by protection to reduce damage in minor parking lot collisions.

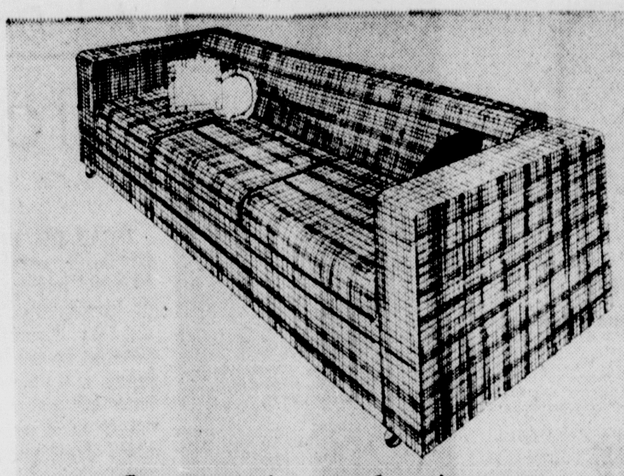

'Operation Bluff' called by crooks

NEW YORK (UPI) — To create the illusion that there were more policemen in some high crime areas than was actually the case, the Police Department parked empty squad cars as "bluffs."

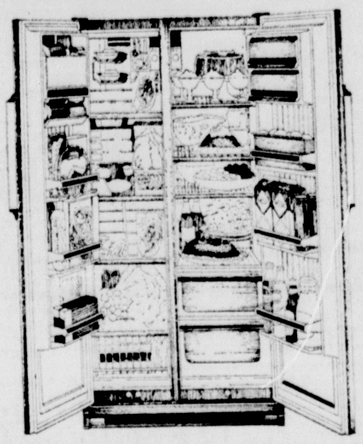

City Councilman Anthony J. Mercorella said today "Operation Bluff" has been abandoned because the police cars "began to turn up stripped of everything of value they contained, from radios to riot helmets."

Transcribers guild

Five cited at dinner

Five members of the Pomona Valley Transcribers Guild were presented pins from the California Transcribers and educators of the Visually Handicapped in recognition of volunteer service in transcribing inkprint into Braille.

The awards were made at the annual dinner meeting of the guild at Griswold's in Claremont. Special guests were Jim Housel, head librarian at the Ontario Public Library, and his wife.

Awards were presented to Mrs. Jean Culbert, Mrs. Faye Rehkop, Mrs. Betty Smith, Mrs. Hester Colwell and Mrs. Mary Dahl in a ceremony presided over by Mrs. Grace Mendel, guild chairman.

During the past year, guild members have brailled 19,230 pages, thermoformed (duplicated) 7,293 pages of Braille, and typed 7,228 pages of large print for the partially sighted.

Included are 16 brailled and nine large-print fiction books for the Ontario Public Library which are available to the public. Books were also brailled for eight college students in a variety of subjects.

A Manual for Baby Sitters was done on a cassette for a blind student to win a Girl Scout award. A hymn book was done in Braille as were several Monopoly games.

The guild received donations from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heatherly, the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 112, and from third and fourth grade classes at El Camino School taught by Mrs. Virginia Bissell.

Mrs. Jean Shumway of Upland received her certification in Braille from the Library of Congress in Washington.

The Dorothy Newman Memorial Fund is being used to buy books for the Ontario Public Library. The guild donated $150 for the purchase of large print books in popular, mystery and other classifications.

In addition, purchases in Braille include "Today's Health" and "Motor Trend."

The next meeting of the guild will be on June 20 at which time new officers will be elected. The meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. at the Ontario Library.

JEANNE BRYANT

Sept. 9 wedding planned

The engagement of Miss Jeanne Bryant of La Verne and Stephen Leroy Hemenover of Covina is announced by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bryant of Pomona.

The couple will be married on Sept. 9 at the Pomona Church of the Brethren.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Garey High School and La Verne College.

Miss Bryant is a reporter at the Progress-Bulletin and is working towards a teaching credential in English and speech pathology at La Verne College.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Leroy Hemenover of Riverside, the groom-to-be is a graduate of Ramona High School in Riverside. He is a graduate of La Verne College and working towards his teaching credential in physical education.

Mr. Hemenover did his student teaching at South Hills High School in Covina where he was freshman baseball coach. He was a member of the La Verne College NAIA national baseball championship team.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Brotherly battles

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: In our family we've always tried to avoid any kind of jealousy or rivalry in our four children. Recently, we were shocked to see that our youngest, a 7-year-old, seems to hate his older brothers because in a game, he shot them dead and even had a mock funeral. Generally, he does not exhibit this kind of anger and he has always appeared to get along with his brothers reasonably well.—O.L.

Dear O.L.: Your son's actions would indicate to me that you might be making his anger and resentment toward his brothers go underground by your restricting open quarrels and family battles.

Sometimes parents worry too much about the normal squabbles that are almost inevitable in a family where there are four young children. There is bound to be some rivalry between siblings and it is far better to accept this and let it come out into the open in a normal, natural way.

Every child and every adult—every human being—feels some anger and aggression even toward those individuals he most loves. As long as love and affection are expressed freely, then there is also room for the expression of some hostility and some anger. Love does not exclude all anger and resentment.

Surely there are many times when you are angry at your husband and he at you, but this does not mean that you do not love each other, or that you have an unhappy marriage. In a marriage where this anger and resentment is never expressed there is much more unhappiness than in a marriage where the anger is accepted as a normal part of any relationship.

I don't think you should feel that because your son acted out his emotions in play that he really wants to kill his brothers. This is part of a game that he knows is make-believe, and for him, it is serving a distinct purpose. Parents, by observing their children at play, can learn a great deal about themselves as parents, as well as how their children feel toward them and toward each other.

Play gives a child an opportunity to act out what he is unable to express in his daily life. The response that would be ordinarily unaccpetable to him as well as to his sibling can be revealed constructively in play. The aggression, envy, jealousy and sense of competitiveness can be channeled in imaginative ways.

Each child, like each adult, must learn to express his hostility and aggressive feelings in a constructive way. There is no point in denying the existence of these feelings because almost every child and adult experiences them at some time. Each must face his own aggressive feelings and either suppress them, sublimate them, or allow himself a moderate amount of hostility, without guilt. The fact that we may feel like killing does not mean that we actually will kill. We find other ways to get rid of this anger and your son found his own way in play.

Aggression is a part of life and it does not mean a denial of love. When your children feel angry with you, or with each other, the best way for you to handle it is to encourage them to talk it out. This way it will be possible to cope with the anger and it will not have to be buried. When buried and denied expression, anger tends to increase and may build and simmer until it is out of control.

Take breaks

Take short breaks while doing housework. Janet Wilson, of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Service recommends a 10-minute break per hour rather than going at chores for three hours and then taking a 30-minute break.

Choir plans benefit

The Youth Choir of the Macedonia Baptist Church will present a musical program this evening as a benefit for Miss Lorraine Johnson of La Puente.

A junior at La Puente High School, Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Birton of La Puente. She has been chosen as a member of a singing group which will participate in the Austrian International Fine Arts Festival this summer. The group will be in Europe from July 10 to Aug. 6 and will visit many major cities.

The Youth Choir will perform at 10 p.m. after a fellowship hour starting at 9 p.m. at the church.

Proceeds from the evening will assist Miss Johnson with needed expenses on the tour.

VERNE KALOUSEK

League selects officers

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall.

The Rev. M.H. Saeger of Trinity Lutheran Church in Montclair will discuss "Better Understanding of the Lutheran Hymnal." All women in the congregation are invited.

Mrs. Verne Kalousek was elected preisdent of the missionary league for the coming year. To serve with her are Mmes. Carwyn Singleton, first vice president; Bill Kock, second vice president; Marvin Schaus, third vice president; R.J. Klopschinski, secretary; and Ed Dieter, treasurer.

The Rev. Herman Mueller is pastoral counselor.

Wisteria to host guests

The annual guest night of Wisteria Rebekah Lodge 246, IOOF, will be on Monday at the Masonic Temple, 8th Street and Yale Avenue, Claremont.

Guest officers from lodges in Chino, Ontario, Pomona and Upland have been invited to participate. Mrs. Lynne Woltje, district deputy president of District 74, and Mrs. Margaret Rowberry, deputy marshal, will be the guests of the noble grand and vice grand.

After the 8 p.m. meeting, a social hour will be staged in the dining room. Committee members for the evening are Marjorie Bowers, Frances Ives, Bettie Banks and Nina Banks.

Pomonan is based at Dallas

Miss Arlene Joy Geannes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeannes of Pomona, has graduated from American Airlines Flight Training College and is now flying for American Airlines. She is based at Dallas, Tex.

Woman Achiever awards

Nominations are now open

The Progress-Bulletin will repeat its Woman Achiever awards program this summer as part of the Women's Department special club edition to be published July 24.

The awards program was originated in 1966 when Pomona Valley residents had an opportunity to nominate outstanding women for service to their community.

This year four women will be named in the special edition and tribute will be paid them for their contributions of time and service to their community at a luncheon later.

The nomination blanks must be returned to the Women's Department of the newspaper not later than June 6.

Fact sheets for club inclusion in the annual Pomona Valley Women edition have also been sent to the president or publicity chairman of every club listed with the Women's Department. Deadline for return of the club forms is June 25.

Additional Woman Achiever forms for nominating persons may be obtained at the cahier's desk at the Progress-Bulletin.

Amy Vanderbilt

Mormon wedding

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I need your expert advice on the matter of wedding invitations. Our daughter will be married in the Mormon temple. A buffet luncheon will be held from 2 to 5 in our church here. After the church reception, we want to invite about 50 close friends to our home to visit.

"It is imperative that all guests arrive by 2 in the afternoon, as we are having a wedding procession and a talk on the meaning of a temple marriage. Many of our guests will not be Mormons. As I see it, I will need the following enclosures: for guests to the temple, for guests to the home, announcements of the wedding, the reception and the procession and a return R. s. v. p.

"Many young people are having their photographs sent out with the announcement. Although I'm not fond of this, I want to know if it is socially acceptable. —M.E., Oakland, Calif."

Yours was an interesting letter, and I learned something myself in getting your answer. Recently, I said that it was a Jewish and Latin custom to include the names of the groom's parents in wedding invitations. I now find that the Mormons also do it.

Here is a typical invitation to receptions held following temple marriages for members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons):

Dr. and Mrs.
Charles Harold Simpson request the pleasure of your company
at the wedding reception of their daughter Janet and
Mr. Scott Robert Hopkins
son of Mr. and Mrs.
Robert Brian Hopkins following their Salt Lake Temple ceremony on Thursday,
the first of June Nineteen hundred and seventy-two from seven until ten o'clock
6000 South Avenue
Salt Lake City, Utah

Some of these invitations, according to my Mormon adviser, have the pictures of the married couple. This is a recent custom and not universal by any means. It is optional with the parents and the newlyweds.

Where a wedding breakfast follows a Temple marriage and precedes the evening reception, which is usually held in the cultural hall of the ward buildings, a small card is usually inserted with the invitation to the reception, inviting the guest to the wedding breakfast. It gives the time, the place and requests a reply.

Your question is very unusual and quite out of the ordinary. I am advised that you should follow the usual order for Mormon receptions, adding any information needed for the guidance of non-Mormons at the marriage of your daughter.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Our daughter will be married at 4 p.m. on a Sunday in August at our temple, with cocktails and dinner following the ceremony. I am told that dress may be formal, which is our preference. What is your feeling about putting 'black tie' on a wedding invitation? —Mrs. W.J., Boston, Mass."

The words "black tie" are not put on wedding invitations. The time of the ceremony and the formality of the invitation are supposed to indicate to guests appropriate dress. A ceremony at 4 p.m. does not indicate black tie to most people. Black tie is worn from 6 o'clock and thereafter (unless one is en route to a function beginning at that time or thereafter).

(For Amy Vanderbilt's booklet, "Engagement Wedding Etiquette," send your name and address, plus 75 cents in coin, to: Miss Amy Vanderbilt, Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1066, Weston, Conn. 06880, requesting the booklet by name.)

Edelson, Gingold troth told

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Edelson of Placentia announce the engagement of their daughter, Roberta Joan, to Jack Thomas Gingold, Chino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gingold, Pomona.

Miss Edelson graduated from Valencia High School, attended California State University at Fullerton and will graduate from UCLA this month. She is a member of Sabra, Jewish Young Adults of West Los Angeles.

Mr. Gingold graduated from Pomona High School in 1963 and from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1968. He is also a member of Sabra. Mr. Gingold is vice president of Pomona Valley News Agency Inc., Ontario.

The wedding will take place Aug. 5.

Luau dance scheduled by club

An annual luau dance will be held by the Oxbow Squares Dance Club of Cucamonga on Saturday at the Central School, 7959 Archibald Ave., Cucamonga.

Activities will begin at 8 p.m. and continue until 11 p.m. Dell Morgan will be the caller and all square dancers are invited.

Smith-Gooden vows repeated in church

The Diamond Bar Friends Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Kaylinda Sue Gooden and Thomas LeRoy Smith.

Officiant for the ceremony was the Rev. Edward White.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gooden of Diamond Bar, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Smith of Las Vegas, Nev.

The bride wore a gown of yellow satin with a lace collar accented with pearls on the lace cuffs and ruffle of the skirt. Her headpiece of yellow flowers held a yellow veil.

The colonial bouquet carried by the bride included white daisies and yellow carnations.

Miss Kimberly Gooden was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Becker of Walnut and Miss Debbie Phinney of Oakland.

Larry Smith was best man. Ushers were Jim Becker of Walnut and Jim Seebert of Diamond Bar.

Miss Kristi Gooden, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds received guests during a reception at the church before departing for a honeymoon in the mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live in the Diamond Bar-Walnut area.

FLAGSTONE RUG—This is a rug that resembles flagstones, bringing the outdoors indoors in a soft way. Cut the irregular "stones" out of old rugs or carpet samples, using gray-green colors if possible. Rectangular shapes are also effective. If the carpeting is rubber-backed it won't fray. With epoxy or a strong waterproof glue, paste the "stones" to outdoor carpeting or to heavy canvas tacked to the floor. The effect is especially striking if the walk outside is real flagstone.

Good news! Carpet prices are lower

The price of liver is at an all-time high. Property taxes climb a mill or two every year. The balance of payments doesn't balance.

America is turning into a nation of service industries whose employees provide increasingly careless service when they're not on strike. Shortages in basic raw materials from fuel oil to shrimp are changing American living patterns for the worse.

Hardrock maple has all but vanished from domestic furniture manufacturing because it's being used as an underlay for Japanese bowling alleys and the Japanese have the yen and they love to bowl.

Would you like some bright news? Carpet costs less — on the average — today that it did in 1952. That's right, the average square yard of carpet sold twenty-one years ago actually cost more than the average square yard of carpet sold in 1972. New census figures confirm it.

The steady, even declining, price of carpet has been no secret in the industry, but it is little noted among the general public. Milo Winter, designer for Lees Carpets, feels that one reason for this is that carpet is still a major purchase that requires a joint husband-and-wife agreement to buy. And regardless of the relatively low square yard price, the floor of a room is a large area to cover, thus making the total expenditure for carpet a high one.

Adding to the price of carpeting a home is the cost of professional installation, not to mention padding. Both are well worth the money in Winter's estimation.

Winter, a man whose designs probably cover more floors in America than any others, made these points about the 1973 carpets that are being shown today in stores:

Synthetic fibers that have been on the market for a while, a period of at least five years, say, are completely satisfactory. The new nylons and the polyesters have been improved to the point where a carpet mill like Lees can spin them into great carpet yarn, twist the yarns, and set the twist under conditions of heat and pressure, and make fashionable, serviceable carpet from them.

Textures are more refined, more civilized. The wild, long-haired shag is out and the thicker, more truly sensual body shag is in. Lees has a collection of body shags in close to 175 colors.

Color is moving towards lighter tones. We're seeing exciting developments among the off-whites, especially towards the citron and celadon sides. Naturals are lighter, too."

Asked about advice for the woman who will be shopping for carpet within the next few months Winter stated that it was a good time to buy while prices are still down. He recommended a range of $8.00-$12.00 a square yard for nylon carpet, $9.00-$13.00 a square yard for polyester. Good acrylic plushes may be found in the $8.00-$10.00 range, he noted.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking that one nylon carpet is as good as another," he cautioned. It isn't. There are many variables. Plied, heat-set yarns add strength and resilience to a carpet. This is a quality difference in yarn construction that only becomes apparent after the carpet has been in service for a year or so.

And one element of construction that makes a polyester carpet perform well is a tightly packed, dense surface texture. Another carpet that may be made from the same brand of polyester, but is made in a lighter construction, won't perform as well.

In its body shag collection, Lees has tried for the optimum balance. No carpet is made extra thick just for a show of luxury. The amount of yarn in each carpet is adjusted to achieve durability and long life, but still offer substantial value. Consumers should have both," Winter said.

Translation of rug saleman's words

The following list of carpet terms and definitions is in no sense of the word, all inclusive. It includes only selected terms which you will most likely encounter when discussing your carpet purchase with a retailer or salesman.

Backing — Material that forms the back of the carpet, regardless of the type of construction.

Primary back — In a tufted carpet, the material to which surface yarns are attached. May be made of jute, kraftcord, cotton, woven or nonwoven synthetics.

Secondary back— Also called "double backing". Any material (jute, woven or nonwoven synthetics, scrim, foam, or cushion) laminated to the primary back.

Bearding — Long fiber fuzz on loop pile fabrics. Caused by fiber snagging and inadequate anchorage.

Bleeding — Loss of color when wet due to improper dyeing or from the use of poor dyestuffs. Fabrics that bleed when wet will stain fabrics which come in contact with them.

BLEND — A fabric containing a mixture of two or more fibers or yarns, or a combination of two or more fibers spun into a yarn.

Brocade — A carpet or rug in which a raised pattern or engraved effect is formed using heavy twisted yarn tufts on a ground of straight fibers. The colors of the two fibers are often the same.

Carpet — The general designation of fabric for soft floor covering, especially that used for the entire floor and fastened to it — for example, wall-to-wall carpet.

Construction — The method by which carpet is made, combining the pile fibers to the backing materials. The term applies to woven, tufted and knitted carpet.

Cushion-back Carpet — A carpet having a cushion or padding as an integral part of its backing.

Cut Pile — A fabric, the face of which is composed of cut ends of pile yarn.

Denier — Unit of weight for the size of a single filament. The higher the denier, the heavier the yarn.

Density — The amount of pile packed into a given volume of carpet, usually measured in ounces of pile yarn per unit of volume.

Double Back — A secondary backing cementered to the back of tufted, knitted and some woven carpet as additional reinforceent, to provide greater dimensional stability.

Embossed — In carpet, the type of pattern formed when heavy twisted tufts are used in a ground of straight yarns to create an engraved appearance. Both the straight and twisted yarns are often the same color.

Fiber — Any substance, natural or synthetic, strong enough to be used in thread or yarn form for processing as a textile. Carpet fibers are natural wool and cotton and man-made rayon, nylon, acrylic, modacrylic, olefin (polypropylene), and polyester.

Fluffing — appearance on carpet surface of loose fiber fragments left during manufacture; not a defect but a characteriistic which disappears after carpet use and vacuuming.

Frieze — (Pronounced "free-zay") — A carpet made of twisted yarns in cut pile that gives a rough, nubby appearance.

Fuzzing — Hairy effect on fabric surface caused by wild fibers or slack yard twist; or by fibers slipping out of yarn or contour in either service or wet cleaning. Carpet of continuous filament yarn is fuzzed by filaments snagging and breaking. It is corrected by shearing in manufactuting or by the professional cleaner.

Grin — A term used to indicate the condition where the backing of the carpet shows between the rows of pile tufts; e.g., some carpet may show the backing when layed over the nosing of a step.

High Low — A multi-level pile, sometimes combining cut and looped surface yarns.

Level Loop — A construction in which the carpet face yarns are tufted or woven into loops of the same pile height.

Looped Pile — Pile surface in which looped yarns are left uncut. In woven carpet, sometimes referred to as "round wire."

Nap — The pile on the surface of a carpet or rug.

Padding — Also called "cushion," "underlay" or "lining." Separate material serving as a cushion under a carpet or rug.

Pattern — Any ornamental feature that is decorative in a fabric and serves to distinguish it from plainness. The sketch to scale showing a design.

Pile — The upright ends of yarn, whether cut or looped, that form the wearing surface of carpet or rugs.

Pile Crush — Bending of pile by constant walking or the pressure of furniture.

Pile Height — The height of pile measured from the surface of the back to the top of the pile.

Pile Setting — Brushing done after shampooing to restore the damp pile to its original height. A pile lifting machine or a pile brush is used.

Plush — A single-level, cut-pile surface.

Ply — The number of strands of yarn twisted together to form a multiple yarn, as in "2-ply" or "3-ply."

Printing — The process of producing a pattern with dyestuffs on carpet and rugs. May be done by several methods, such as screen printing, or roller equipment operating on the relief-printing principle.

Puckering — A condition in a carpet seam, due to poor layout or unequal stretch, wherein the carpet on one side of the seam is longer or shorter than that on the other side, causing the long side to wrinkle or develop a "pleated" effect.

Random-sheared — Texture pattern created by shearing some of the top or higher loops and leaving others looped.

Resilience — The ability of a carpet fabric or padding to spring back to its original shape or thickness after being crushed or walked upon.

Rug — A term used to designate soft floor coverings laid on the floor but not fastened to it. As a rule, a rug does not cover the entire floor.

Scrim Back — A double back made of light, coarse fabric, cemented to a jute or kraftcord back in tufted construction.

Sculptured — In carpet, this refers to a type of pattern formed when certain tufts are eliminated or pile yarns drawn tightly to the back to form a specific design in the face of the carpet. The pattern resulting simulates the effect of hand carving.

Self-tone — A pattern of two or more shades of the same color. When two shades are used in a pattern or design, it is called "two-tone."

Shading — An apparent change of color in carpet pile — caused when light is reflected in different ways as pile fibers are bent; not a defect, but a characteristic, especially of cut pile fabrics, including upholstery and clothing.

Shag — A deep pile texture with long, cut surface yarns.

Shearing — the process in manufacture in which the fabric is drawn under revolving cutting blades as in a lawn mower, in order to produce a smooth face on cut pile or to cut selected tufts on random shear and tip sheared carpet.

Shedding — The operation of forming a shed in weaving. A loss of nominal length staple during processing or normal use of the material.

Shooting or Sprouting — Individual strands of yarn protruding above the surface of the pile. This condition is not a defect and the sprouting can simply be eliminated by clipping off the yarn. Never attempt to pull the yarn out.

Splush — A construction in which the carpet is in between a shag and a plush.

Stiffness — Property of a fiber or fabric which resists bending.

Streak — A discoloration extended as an irregular stripe in the carpet.

Texture — A surface effect obtained by using different heights of pile or two or more forms of yarn, or by alternating the round and cut pile wires, by "brocade" engraving, simulated or actual carving or shaving with an electric razor, or other special treatment of the design, to give added interest beyond that provided by the woven design or tones.

Tip-shearing — Texture pattern created in the same way as random-shearing, but generally less definite than random-sheared.

Two-tone — A design or pattern obtained by using two shades of the same color.

Yarn — A generic term for a continuous strand of textile fibers, filaments or material suitable for knitting, weaving, tufting or otherwise intertwining to form a textile fabric.

Chariot of outdoors relaxation

An unusual chaise lounge is offered under license in the United States by Thonet. Designed by Paul Tuttle for Straessle Inter-collection of Switzerland, the design is almost a piece of sculpture.

The curved understructure of chrome plated tubular steel is 71 inches long. Tawny, caramel colored genuine suede, in patchwork pattern, is stretched across a framework of tubular steel finished in black epoxy.

Perennials play roles in gardens

Progress-Bulletin
Home and Garden

Perennials play a wide range of roles in California gardens. They can be used in large, colorful mass display, or to fill narrow beds, combined in borders with other shrubs, or displayed by themselves in a perennial flower border.

This year, gardeners in the Golden State may find perennials especially useful, since the long rainy season played havoc with many a gardening plan. Nurseries have them as bedding plants in flats, or in various-sized nursery containers.

Two highly recommended perennials for highlighting the summer garden are Transvaal Daisies and Marguerites, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

The distinctive flower and exquisite colors of the Transvaal Daisy are but two of its popular assets. The single-flowering and double forms come in several shades of yellow, cream, white, pink, coral, rose, orange and red. The newer, intensely colorful, hybrids feature flowers that measure four inches, or more, across. They provide continuous color, from early spring to early winter.

Transvaal Daisies are ideal for random accents in the garden, and in border situations they are stellar attractions. Plant in sun, or partial shade — sheltered from the wind. The crown of the plant should be above soil after planting.

Marguerites are used as much in pots and tubs as they are in the garden. They are truly standbys on the summer scene. The glistening white and yellow varieties are sure fire sources of continuous color in the warm season. Daisy-like flowers all but smother the plants. They form good-sized mounds that spread appreciately — and attractively in sunny locations. Use them to form a 2-3 foot border, or display them as a flowering hedge; plant a few near the patio where their presence will add a refreshing touch to the family's outdoor living area.

Shopping will reveal there is a Pink Marguerite, more modest in growth, and a Blue Margureite. The latter is actually Felicia, and sports shrubby growth — that is low and compact — which is adorned by petalled, daisy-like flowers in appealing shades of sky-blue. Both make admirable accent plants and excellent edgings around a permanent planting. Felicia doubles as a sun-loving hanging basket plant.

INDOOR SPECIALTY—Noted for its willingness to grow in poorly-lighted areas, the Chinese evergreen is prized for its ornamental foliage. Some varieties of this plant are grown in water, and featured in aquariums.

Alaska priest makes wine from milk

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — the Russians did it first, but The Russians did it first, but made wine from milk. The Dairy Research Digest says a 71-year-old clergyman used whey and nonfat dry milk to make a wine with 11 per cent alcohol. In the Caucasus mountainsof the Soviet Union, cow's milk is used to make kefir, a sour, acidic beverage with a low alcoholic content. The nomads of central Asia make a similar beverage, but theirs is prepared from mare's or camel's milk. It's called koumiss.

Turn that apartment into small greenhouse

The interest in growing plant indoors is a modern day phenomenon. It also points up the fact that homes, condominiums, apartments, mobile homes, dormitory rooms and business offices aren't designed as a greenhouse so the growing of certain plants indoors may become a challenge.

Anybody can grow plants indoors if a few factors are taken into consideration: temperature, moisture and light. Most limiting factor for plant growth is light. Temperature can be a factor, depending upon the season and individual dwelling.

Where results have not fulfilled expectations, the trick is to select plants that will tolerate low humidity and a high degree of heat — plants that also require low light and little care. And, which will thrive as long as moisure is provided.

This may seem like an impossible set of standards, but there are several plants which should prosper under less than perfect situations.

Aspidasitra (Cast Iron Plant) is a rich green, leafy specimen which grows in an expanding clump and reaches 18 inches in height.

Two vining plants that want some natural light, and will serve as living wall decorations are Grape Ivy and Cissus antartica, often sold as Kangaroo Vine.

A taller choice is known as Corn Plant (Dracaena fragrans 'Massangeana'). Don't let the botanical name deter you; when shopping for this one, just look for plants with corn-like leaves. "Warneckii" is the striped version, either of these upgright growers is suitable.

Sanseveria may be hard to pronounce (San-su-very-uh). But there's nothing difficult about growing the different ones available. One has a rosette of fleshy, succulent leaves, the other is an erect-growing and taller variety.

Don't overlook the opportunities afforded by two favorite landscape shrubs: Pittosporum tobira and Podocarpus maki. Both excel in garden situations and can often be utilized in low-light situations, indoors.

Before rushing out to buy, the California Association of Nurserymen recommends you view these plants first-hand, discuss your needs with a professional, then decide which are the most pleasing for your indoor environment.

Have the best lawn on the block

By Sheila and Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

If you really want the best lawn on the block, be prepared to spend money, hours and hard work. Grass can be truly beautiful if you want to pay the price.

But if you want an attractive expanse of lawn, few weeds and time to enjoy home and garden here are the secrets of a basic beauty lawn.

Use mowing strips to keep grass in a neat line around flower beds, shrub borders and other cultivated area. Walks, bricks set level with the soil, rotproof wood all work well.

Avoid small, chopped-up areas of lawn which are difficult to cut, especially with larger power mowers.

Remove grass from around the base of individual trees. Replace it with permanent organic mulch, ground covers or gravel as mulch. This saves hand trimming time and avoids bruising tree trunks when mowing close in.

Pick the right mowing equipment. Don't spend dollars on a 14 horsepower tractor for a quarter acre. Match the mower to your size lawn. If your garden extensively a riding tractor with other attachments can be a real help.

Consider underground watering. New plastic hose and sprinkler units can be installed in one day. They come with timers to apply the right amount of water, then shut off. These inexpensive units save hauling hoses, overwatering, cutting hoses with mowers and other problems.

Feed and weed in one shot. Newer fertilizers are programmed to control lawn weeds with a selective herbicide. They also have slow or timed release nutrients. In this way your grass won't be burned. Instead, it will receive the right amounts of nutrients over a longer period. This means, no spurt in growth with a lag later on.

Planning your lawn-care is a simple, effective way to achieve basic beauty with less care. That leaves you more time to enjoy it, family and friends.

The lib gardener

Wherein our hero gets new work-free system

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

In a narrow yard-wide fifty-foot strip bordering our parking area is an unorthodox gardening experiment, launched about five years back, in what I call hodge-podge growing. A better name would be crowd-'em-and-feed-'em gardening.

For decades the strip had been reserved for bulbs, mostly daffodils and tulips, but some Dutch iris and lilies. Every Spring it gave us a gorgeous blossom show — until a heavy, wind-blown rain hit us. Then the show was over for a year. Nothing to do but let the foliage dry up, then dig the bulbs, clean and store them and replant in October for the next Springtime burst.

"Too much work for too short blossoming," I complained. "I'm going to liberate myself from bulb digging."

That fall I crowded the hundreds of daffodils into a foot-wide bed at the outer edge of the strip. Next I jammed in a row of tulips, planted so close together that they almost nudged one another. Then a row of dwarf dahlia tubers, grown from seed in the vegetable patch. Alongside the dahlia, a row of chrysanthemums, rooted from cuttings, likewise among the vegetables. Along the other edge of the strip I holed in twenty clumps of hybrid lilies. Between these, some Dutch iris and coral bells. A couple of geraniums joined in the floral pile-up.

"No more digging in that flower bed," I told a dubious neighbor. "Those posies are going to have to acclimate and fight for their lives."

"They'll starve one another to death," he predicted.

But they didn't. After finishing my hodgepodge planting, I spread one inch of chopped leaves over the bed, then scattered a generous feeding of 8-8-8 pellets to be washed into the soil by the winter rains. Come Spring, I started lighter monthly feedings of 8-8-8. The roots lapped up the nutrient and the plants burgeoned into a veritable floral jungle that bloomed from early Spring to late Autumn.

The show has been repeated every year without any effort by the indolent gardener, except for scattering fertilizer pellets and whacking off stems after the blossoming.

First come the daffodils, which acclimated well and, contrary to forebodings, burst into more and bigger blooms on longer stems each Springtime. Then the tulips, a colorific show the first year, but not after that.

The lilies pushed up like asparagus and have given us early summer flowers.

LEAVE 'EM AND LOVE IT — Working a variation of the heartbreak theme, the Lib Gardener has developed a method to let his bulbs work for him—instead of the other way around. With a feeding of 8-8-8 food at the right times, he can stay in his hammock longer.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Feed azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons if it has been a month, or six weeks, since their last meal.
2. Water lawns deeply to discourage shallow rooting. Use a soaker on sloping lawns to prevent runoff and to conserve the community water supply.
3. For a quick, pleasing show of color, set-out dwarf dahlias this week. Plants are available in nursery flats or in larger-sized individual containers.
4. Shop for container-grown roses in bloom; this enables you to select exact shades of color you desire for your garden. On existing roses in your garden, keep the faded blooms cut off.
5. Keep after snails and slugs. Bait or pellets should be placed at intervals, throughout the the garden, for control.

Controversy rages at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway divided up more than $1 million in prize money among the competitors in the 1973 500-mile auto racing classic but controversy over the rain-delayed and tragedy-marred race raged on.

With two drivers and four fans still hospitalized with burns suffered in crashes on two different days, the racing fraternity pondered ways to make the 500 safer.

Two fatalities added to the controversy. Race driver Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., was killed in a practice run before the start of time trials May 12 and pit crewman Armando Teran, 22, Santa Monica, Calif., died Wednesday when he was struck by a fire truck in the pit area.

Rumors circulated in Indianapolis racing circles that Frank Del Roy had resigned as head of the technical committee for the U.S. Auto Club, the committee responsible for seeing that cars meet USAC rules for both safety and capabilities.

Del Roy was not available for comment, and William Smith, USAC's executive director, said no formal resignation had been submitted. However, Smith said he, too, had heard the rumors.

Driver Swede Savage, Santa Ana, Calif., remained in critical condition in Methodist Hospital with burns and other injuries suffered in a fiery crash Wednesday when the race was finally run and Gordon Johncock, Franklin, Ind., won the rain-shortened chase.

Salt Walther, Dayton, Ohio, hurt when his machine crashed and burned Monday during an abortive attempt to start the race, was listed in serious condition. Two 15-year-old fans from Wingate, Ind., Sue Rankin and Diane Dazey, also remained in serious condition with burns suffered when Walther's car crashed. Listed in fair condition with burns from the same wreck was Dorothy West, 51, also of Wingate.

Johncock, declared the winner when rain halted the race after 332.5 miles, collected $236,022, short of the record first place prize of $238,454 won by Al Unser two years ago, but more than the $218,767 won last year by Mark Donohue.

The total purse was $1,006,105, less than last year's record payoff of $1,011,845, but the fourth straight year the "500" purse has exceeded $1 million.

Questions debated in Gasoline Alley Thursday included whether the controversial wings on the cars' superstructures should be banned or at least reduced in size to cut down on the turbulence when racers run in traffic.

Drivers and crew members also discussed whether the traditional three-abreast flying start of the "500" should be changed for safety's sake, and whether the fire truck which struck Teran should have been allowed to drive north in the pit area, normally one-way southbound.

"I don't think any truck should be driving in the opposite direction to the normal race car traffic in the pits," George Bignotti, chief mechanic for Johncock, said.

Car sponsor Andy Granatelli said he would get out of big car racing next year unless rules are changed with safety in mind.

Vince Granatelli, team manager for the Grahan McRae crew, said Teran's death was caused by "sheer ignorance." Teran was a member of that crew. "That truck had no business going that fast the wrong way through the pits."

Chief Steward Harlan Fengler said emergency vehicles "under certain conditions" can go in opposite direction of either the track or in the pits.

"It was tragic," Fengler said. "We have cautioned all those in the pits time and again to watch out for traffic. This vehicle was trying to help."

AUDIENCE IN HANDS

Gymnast Cathy Rigby Mason holds the audience in her hands as she goes through her practice on the balance beam during China-U.S.A. meet at the Los Angeles Sports Arena Thursday night.

Chinese wow L.A. sports fans

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Liu Chim-lin, national women's vaulting champion of the People's Republic of China, and her teammates thrilled 6,070 fans Thursday night in a China-USA international gymnastics sports exhibiton at the Sports Arena.

Miss Liu performed a full twist dismount and was the only one of the seven participants to execute this difficult and unusual maneuver.

Chang Chung-lin, China's top male floor exercise specialist, slipped slightly in the opening seconds of his routine, but redeemed himself with spectacular high twisting leaps, flipflops, and back flips with exciting half twists.

Yang Ming-ming, China's all-around champion, put on dazzling exhibitions in men's pommelled horse and vaulting events. He was the class performer in both.

Drawing the biggest applause were three American girls— Kathy Rigby Mason, Kyle Gaynor and 15-year-old Debby Pike—for their performances on the balance beam.

Mrs. Mason, America's top woman gymnast in the 1972 Munich Olympics, staged a solid performance that had to rank with one of her best ever. She came back for an equally dynamic exhibition in the uneven bars.

One of the highlights of the program was a mass vaulting routine performed by eight Chinese men, led by Ming-ming.

The 16 Chinese athletes concluded the evening's entertainment by singing three Chinese songs, "Yellow River," "A Single Blossom Leads to Hundreds" and "Golden Sky Over Peking", and then delighted the audience by singing—in English—"America the Beautiful."

Don Hogan gets wish

Don Hogan has been granted his wish.

Now he also has a headache.

Hogan, a Cal Poly graduate, accepted the job as head basketball coach at his alma mater early this week.

As he said, taking the job is the fulfillment of his dreams. But he also has a lot of work ahead of him.

Unfortunately, Poly's basketball program must be almost entirely rebuilt.

Along with coach Dan Ayala leaving Pomona to go to Nevada Las Vegas, the Broncos lost seven seniors from the 1972-73 team.

To add to the problems, Hogan is getting a late start in the recruiting wars. At this date, Poly has no guarantees of any new faces.

"We must go with junior college transfers," Hogan said. "We especially need a guard and forward. We have to hope some of the better JC players will change their minds on other schools and come here. If they don't, we're in trouble."

Hogan added he will basically concentrate on California talent. "We know we are getting a late start so we have to be very aggressive."

Six lettermen will be returning next season in Robert Gray, Lee Roy Williams, Alphonso Adair, John Carrillo, Tom Anderson and Richard Reid.

Top JV team

Hogan also has five players coming up from his outstanding junior varsity team, which compiled a 17-3 record. He has high hopes for James Hunt, Malcolm Kennedy, Tom Rogers, Brian Thomas and Richard Watson.

Three outstanding transfers from Howard University in Washington, D.C —Levi Williams, Paul Newton and David Kennedy — are in school but won't be eligible until January.

Outside of that, Hogan is looking.

Apparently, Caldwell Black, the other assistant on Ayala's staff, will be staying at Poly to work with Hogan.

Black knows how to recruit and should serve as a valuable assistant.

With a schedule including the likes of Loyola, Arizona, Cal State Long Beach, Nevada Las Vegas and other California Collegiate Athletic Association members, Hogan has his work cut out for him.

But he is anxious to tackle the tough assignment. Cal Poly made a good choice to continue its fine basketball program.

Meanwhile, Poly football coach Roy Anderson is using the scientific approach in getting his team ready for the fall campaign.

Anderson and his staff are busy interviewing each member of the team for personal evaluations which he believes will be a great help during the season.

"Were doing a lot of new things this year since we now have a large enough staff to accomplish more, Anderson explained. "For instance, we weighed all our players under water to learn what their body fat content is. We had also taken tests on their leg muscles. Each player has also been graded daily in spring practice by the coaches."

What will all this accomplish?

"It gives us the opportunity to counsel each player on how he can improve as a football players and as a physical being. Anderson continued. "We have decided what each player should weigh when he reports to practice on August 19 and what he can do during the summer to help himself."

Anderson was pleased by the accomplishments during spring practice and is busy recruting more talent.

Some of the top high school seniors recruited by Anderson include Ganesha High lineman John Medlin, defensive lineman John Manning of Riverside, Ramona High and Linebacker Marty McGrail of Loyola High.

JC transfer

Another top propsect is defensive back Rick Tenaga Moorpark College.

Does Anderson feel the new limits by the NCCA in football scholarships will help the smaller colleges?

"I don't believe it will help us right away," Anderson said. "Maybe it will in two years if the major schools abide by it. But there are 100 ways to get around it."

The Poly coach is an advocate of limited substition.

"College football is going to kill itself unless the schools can cut costs," Anderson explained. "Even in our case, we can't play the caliber of competition we face without recruiting. But when you recruit, the costs are unbelieveable."

"With limited substitution, we could field a team of 28 to 30 players at considerable savings," Anderson added. "Right now, we can't step on the field with less with 45 people."

Russell feels at home now

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Russell committed a club-leading 34 errors as a former outfielder learning a new position a year ago.

On April 12, the Los Angeles Dodgers lost their sixth game in seven starts and the boyish-looking shortstop made his third error of the young season. Dodger Stadium erupted in a chorus of boos.

They're not booing Russell here any more, though. The 24year-old native of Pittsburg, Kan., has played a key role—both defensively and offensively —in a remarkable Dodger turnabout.

"Baseball is supposed to be fun and that's the way it is now," Russell said. "It's a great feeling coming to the ball park."

Russell had a double and three singles for four RBIs Wednesday night as the Dodgers completed a merry May with a 9-4 win over Philadelphia to move 11 games over .500. In baseball's second month, he raised his batting average 45 points to .289.

With Russell supplying most of the big plays, the Dodgers, a club which led the National League with 162 errors in 1972, rank first in the league in double plays with 64..

"I'm finally at home at shortstop," he said. "I'm relaxed now and I'm able to take charge leadership-wise. Things are coming natural, things I used to have to think about first are coming instinctively. I feel confident out there and that's helping me at the plate. I'm not worried about how things are going in the field any more."

The Dodgers wind up a 12-game homestand with a three-game series against the Montreal Expos. They take a .282 team batting average, the best in the majors, into the series, which opens tonight.

"I've seen the ball better on this homestand," added Russell, who bats No. 8. "I've been swinging at strikes and concentrating at making contact."

During the Sandy Koufax years, the Dodgers used to rely on Russell's predecessor, Maury Wills, to "steal" them one or two runs.

In the first two months of the Dodgers' 16th season here, the club is averaging 4.5 runs and 10 hits in 50 games.

Can they keep it up?

"This is just a day by day thing," replied Russell. "We just do the best we can every day."

In tonight's game with Montreal, the Dodgers plan to open the three-game series with lefthander Al Downing (5-1) against the Expos' Balor Moore (3-3).

Tonight is teen night at Dodger Stadium, with all teenagers being admitted to the $2.50 seats for only $1.

Sunday will be Oldtimers Day.

Big Bob delivers KO punch again

BOSTON (UPI) — There's nothing big Bob Oliver would rather do than slam the home run that wins the game for the California Angels.

His homers were the game-winning blows for the Angels eight times last year and he did it again Thursday with a three-run, eighth inning blast that lifted California to a 7-6 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

"I guess I was just lucky to come up to bat at the right time," the 6-foot-3, 220-pound rightfielder said. "But I knew with Lee (Stanton) and Frank (Robinson) on base it was all up to me."

Vada Pinson, Stanton and Robinson opened the eighth with consecutive singles to account for one run. Oliver followed with a line shot to left center for his seventh homer of the season. The homer also enabled him to tie a club record, shared with Leon Wagner, with 26 runs-batted-in in one month.

California scored its first three runs in the fifth when Rudy Meoli's sacrifice fly scored Mike Epstein and Bill Grabarkewitz followed with a home run to score Jerry DaVanon ahead of him.

Boston got one run in the first when Luis Aparicio singled home Tommy Harper, who had singled and stolen second base.

The Red Sox added two more in the second when Danny Cater and John Kennedy singled, advanced on a groundout and scored on Harper's single.

A sacrifice fly by Dwight Evans and a two-run double by Aparicio increased the lead to 5-0 in the fourth. The final Boston run came in the fifth with pinch-hitter Ben Oglivie scoring when Rico Petrocelli hit into a double play.

The win went to Rich Hand, who evened his record at 3-3 after coming in for starter Rudy May.

Heair KOs Mucino in Olympic tiff

With only seconds left in the fifth round, Heair, 136¼, of Los Angeles, pinned the 137½ pound Mucino against the ropes and flailed away until the bell sounded.

At the bell, Mucino slipped through the ropes to the canvas and had to be carried to his corner by his assistants. He was groggy and bleeding heavily from his lower lip which had been punctured by one of his own teeth.

Earlier in the round, Heair put Mucino down with a left-right combination for the mandatory eight-count but the Mexican figher bounced back and slugged it out toe-to-toe until he was pinned to the ropes.

The victory was the 26th without a loss and the 12th knockout win for Heair, the No. 4 rated lightweight contender. It was the fifth loss for Mucino who has won 29 bouts.

Cal 500 ducats go on sale June 25

ONTARIO — The old saying that "you've got to inherit good seats from somebody that dies" was definitely the case at this year's Indianapolis 500.

Parnelli Jones, president of Ontario Motor Speedway and in partnership with the management of the Indianapolis track, found that it was even impossible for him to buy good seats.

"We tried the whole week before the race to buy good tickets for some friends flying in from Los Angeles, but the good ones were all long gone," said Jone s.

The former Indy 500 winner hopes that as president of OMS he will have the same problem for the California 500 at Ontario, Sunday, Sept. 2.

"We sent out applications for ticket renewals last week and the response thus far has been great," said Jones. "we'll process those orders and be on sale to the general public through Ticketron about June 25."

Jones went on to state that application for tickets may be made now by writing the Ontario Motor Speedway Ticket Office, Ontario, 91764.

"We've evened out our ticket prices for this year's California 500 with the Central Councourse selling for $30, while both the East and West Concourse are available for $20. We've enlarged some of the grandstands in the turns and deleted a few others. Prices there are pretty much the same."

The East Concourse, or Turn 1, ticket represents a $5 drop in price.

"Auto racing made great gains in popularity in 1972," said Jones, "and I think the day when good California 500 seats will be prized family possessions is not far away."

USIU wins NAIA opener

PHOENIX (UPI) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball championships were extended one day Thursday after three opening day games were postponed due to rain.

Thundershowers drenched Phoenix Municipal Stadium after U.S. International of San Diego posted a 5-4 victory over Malone College of Ohio.

The three remaining games were rescheduled for Friday, with Eastern Connecticut State meeting Wisconsin in the first afternoon game. Valdosta State College of Georgia will play Phillips of Oklahoma in another afternoon game, and Grand Canyon College of Phoenix will meet Pembroke State of North Carolina in the evening.

Four games will be played Saturday, three Sunday and two Monday. The championship will be decided Tuesday.

Seven Poly spikers enter NCAA semis

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. — Cal Poly Pomona advanced seven men here Thursday in qualifying for the NCAA College Division Track and Field Championships at Wabash College.

Milt Turner gained the semifinals in the 120 high hurdles, running second in his heat in 14.1. The heat was won by Olympic champ Rod Milburn in 13.8.

David Frierson moved to the semis in the sprints, taking third in both the 100 and 220 with times of 9.6 and 21.6 seconds.

In the 880 both Albert Seeney and James Couch advanced easily.

All semifinals will be held today.

Richard Watson's long jump of 23-5 moved him into today's finals.

The meet, which attracted 600 athletes from 130 schools, winds up Saturday.

Finals today include the long jump, hammer throw, shot put, 120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash and the six-mile run.

Jim Baum of Ashland, Ohio, held the decathlon lead after five events Thursday—the 100 meters, long jump, shot put, high jump and 400 meters. Baum had 3,653 points.

Curt Tesar of Cleveland State was second with 3,637 points, followed by Ralph Allen of Southwestern at Memphis 3,522 and Chester McGaugh of UC-Riverside, 3,479. The remainder of the decathlon field of 14 was scattered behind the four leaders.

Rod Milburn of Southern University, Olympic gold medalist and world record holder in the 120-yard high hurdles, won his heat easily Thursday with a time of 13.8.

Eastern Illinois, Norfolk State and Northeast Missouri were favored to win the team title vacated by defending champion Eastern Michigan, which has moved into the NCAA University Division.

Prep spikers dig for pot of gold

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

WOODLAND — Six Pomona Valley athletes are in Peter Pan's 'Never-Neverland'. They're also seeking that pot-o-gold 'Somewhere over the Rainbow' and the Wizard of Oz is now located at Woodland High School, near Sacramento, the site of the 1973 California State Track and Field Championships which began this afternoon.

It's the culmination of a year-long goal and for some of the performers it's a second chance.

Claremont's Marcus Gordien heads the list of locals. The Wolfpack star is competing in the shot put and discus. His top put of the year was last week's 58-8 effort while another 182-3 effort could put him atop the list in the discus.

His toughest competition in both events will come from Inglewood's Dave Doupe who has marks of 67-8¼ and 186-0.

Chino has the most entrants as Mike Nau, hopes to bring his best effort of 48.9 down to 48.3 in the 440 yard run, and Gene Bernard who will have to improve his 6-8¾ height in the high jump to 6-10 or 6-11.

Upland's Rick Martin is vying for the top spot in the 180 yard low hurdles. The Highlander high-stepper has recorded an 18.8 wind-aided clocking this year and will need a repeat performance in order to place first.

Bonita's Don Rees will be up against prime competition in the 440 and will need to cut nearly a full second off his best time of 49.0.

The other entrant is Ganesha's Cleve Porter. "Sky King" qualified for this meet with a 45-8¾ triple jump effort at Cerritos College last week in his first competitive showing in the event. But the gentle Giant will need to improve another four feet in distance if he's going to win the event.

The CIF reports that some changes have been made in the final results of last Friday's Masters Meet after a review of the films of the finishes.

Nine varsity spots were altered with Martin being the only local participant involved. The Highlander has been moved from fourth to fifth place while Muir's Fred Shaw was moved from fifth to fourth in the 180 lows. While the move alters Martin's finish in the Masters it does not take-away his qualifying for the State meet.

Prelims start today at 4 p.m. with the championships beginning at noon Saturday. Local athletes took off this morning, via airplane, at 10 o'clock and will return at approximately 8:30 p.m. Saturday evening.

Best start of career

Holtzman wins 10th

By United Press International

The only resemblance between last year's world champions and this year's version of the Oakland A's can be found in the left arm of Ken Holtzman.

Holtzman, a 19-game winner for the A's last season, is off to the best start of his career and is the only member of the A's' pitching staff—or the team for that matter—who is performing up to last year's capabilities.

The 27-year-old southpaw notched his 10th victory Thursday night in an overpowering 6-0 decision over the New York Yankees and he came close to notching the third no-hitter of his major league career before an injury forced him to leave the game.

Holtzman, whose 10-2 record this year is exceeded only by Chicago ironman Wilbur Wood, pitched a perfect game for 6 2-3 innings before Matty Alou spoiled his no-hit bid with a solid single up the middle. Holtzman then retired the Yankees in the seventh but was forced to leave the game in the eighth when he was hit on the back of the left knee by a line drive off the bat of Jim Ray Hart. Rollie Fingers pitched hitless ball over the last 1 2-3 innings to preserve the triumph.

"It was the hardest ball I've ever had hit back at me," said Holtzman, referring to Hart's smash which was transformed into an out when it ricocheted over to first baseman Deron Johnson. "I thought I was dead. It took me a few seconds to recover, but then I knew a bone wasn't broken. But I knew I got smacked pretty hard. I never saw the ball.

"I figure my best pitch is the fastball and that's all I threw tonight. If they were gonna hit me, it was going to be a fastball."

Holtzman got batting support from Reggie Jackson, who drove in two runs in the first with a two-run double and homered in the fifth, and from Sal Bando, who stroked a two-run homer in the fifth.

In other American League games, Chicago routed Detroit 10-2, Kansas City defeated Baltimore 4-1, Texas beat Cleveland 9-5, California edged Boston 7-6 and Minnesota downed Milwaukee 4-2.

Dick Allen and Bill Melton drove in seven runs between them as the White Sox belted the Tigers. Allen slammed a three-run homer, his 11th, in the sixth and also doubled in another run in the second while Melton scored a run with an infield out in the first and singled home two more in the second. Ed Herrmann also homered for Chicago while Dick Sharon hit his first major league homer for Detroit.

Eddie Fisher went the distance for the White Sox to gain his fifth win against three losses.

Amos Otis singled in two runs and Gene Garber pitched a six-hitter to pace the Royals over Baltimore. Garber, 5-1, cruised into the seventh inning with a three-hitter before giving up a solo homer to Don Baylor. John Mayberry also drove in a run for the Royals, giving him a club record 30 for one month.

Jeff Burroughs highlighted a four-run first inning with a two-run double and Rico Carty added a two-run homer in the second to pace the Rangers' triumph over Cleveland. Sonny Siebert gained credit for the victory, even though he was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a blistered foot. Oscar Gamble had a two-run homer for the Indians.

Danny Thompson drove in the winning run with a fifth inning single and Harmon Killebrew smacked his 544th career homer as the Twins topped the Brewers for their fourth straight victory. The loss was Milwaukee's fourth in a row and seventh in eight games. Killebrew also drove in a run with a first inning single.

Stargell's bat inspires Bucs to win

By United Press International

There's nothing better than one swipe of Willie Stargell's bat to make the Pittsburgh Pirates look and feel like world championns.

You've heard of those inspirational leaders in baseball, the guys who run out every grounder, just can't tolerate losing, fight for every inch. Stargell isn't that type. He's a quiet leader who thinks a tape-measure three-run homer that wins a game sort of helps his team.

Stargell did just that Thursday night when he hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Pirates a 3-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves and their fourth straight win. The victory lifted the Pirates to within 4 ½ games of first-place Chicago in the National League's Eastern Division race.

"I generally hit good in June and July and so maybe this will get us going," said Stargell, who revealed that he had been going to the park early for extra batting practice. "I feel the ball club is beginning to jell now because we're getting good starting pitching and the defense has improved. We'll do our share of hitting."

Chicago defeated Houston 16-8 and Cincinnati beat St. Louis 3-2 in other NL games.

Stargell hit his three-run homer in the eighth inning after Manny Sanguillen singled and Rich Hebner walked. The homer, his 14th, sailed into the upper deck in Three Rivers Stadium, the fourth time Willie has done it and only the fifth time it ever has been done.

Nelson Briles pitched a three-hitter for his third victory while Gary Gentry suffered his fifth loss against four wins. The Braves scored their run in the fifth inning on a single by Mike Lum, a walk and Marty Perez' double.

A combination of six singles, two bases-loaded walks, a fielding error by third baseman Doug Rader, a hit batter and a wild pitch enabled the Cubs to score 10 runs in the first inning and down the Astros. Randy Hundley and Rick Monday tacked on homers to the first-inning mess to make it easy for Ferguson Jenkins to win his sixth game with the relief help of Bob Locker.

The 10 runs in the first inning came with two out after Rader's error.

Joe Morgan homered in the sixth off Bob Gibson to give the Reds their victory over St. Louis. Ross Grimsley won his fifth game for the Reds with a seven-hitter although touched for Lou Brock's second homer of the season. Gibson is 3-6

Sports news in brief

The NFL PLAYERS Association suffered a double loss in Washington Thursday at the hands of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), when unfair labor charges levelled against the NFL involving artificial turf and automatic fines for fighting were thrown out by the five-member board. The NLRB ruled that in both cases Commissioner Pete Rozelle or the NFL owners bargained in good faith and did not violate bargaining procedures as charged by the NFL Players Assn.

FORMER WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT champion Joe Frazier Thursday formally signed for a 12-rounder with European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner July 2 in London, saying he "can't afford to take any more whippings." The non-title bout will mark Frazier's first ring appearance since losing his title to George Foreman in Kingston, Jamaica, last Jan. 22 on a second-round TKO. Frazier, 29, hit the canvas six times before the fight was called.

HEAVYWEIGHT CONTENDER Jerry Quarry fears he is suffering with the flu and that he may have to back out of his scheduled fight with Earnie Shavers of Cleveland on June 16 at Madison Square Garden. Garden spokesmen John Condon said Quarry will notify the Garden today whether he can fight June 16 after he has been examined by his personal physisian.

THE STORM DELAYED $100,000 Sealy-Faverge Classic was scheduled to get underway for the second time today but more thunderstorms were predicted for this usually hot and dry desert city. Torrential rain and hail hit the Desert Inn Golf Course Thursday and wiped out the opening round of the scheduled 72-hole Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament — the richest event on the tour.

AFTER A MONTH LONG layoff, the Professional Bowlers Association kicks off its million dollar summer-fall tour Saturday with 144 bowlers in the field for the $55,000 Winston Salem Open. Heading the field for the second of three tournaments being sponsored by Winston-Salem this year is on McCune of Munster, Ind. The righthander captured the Winston-Salem Classic in February and went on to bank near $40,000 to lead the winter-spring tour money race.

Door closes on Walnut C.M. in 2-2 tie with West Covina

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — The Biblical saying "Knock and the door shall open, seek and ye shall find" is true where personal salvation is concerned.

But Walnut's Connie Mack club found the door locked four times in its San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League baseball game with West Covina Thursday night at Mt. San Antonio College. Terry Murphy's first-year team had four runners cut down at home plate in the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings in a bid to snap a 2-2 deadlock, that ended as such, after seven innings because of darkness.

The game will be completed, where it left off (after seven complete innings), ONLY if it is a determining factor on the outcome of the league.

Walnut entered the contest sporting a .300 plus team batting mark, averaging over 13 hits per game, and a 1-1 SGV record. Paul Truman's West Covina club was unbeaten in three league games.

The game began in a wild and wooly fashion as West Covina scored in its first turn at bat without the benefit of a hit. Keith Marshall walked, stole second, moved to third on a ground out, and scored on an error by shortstop Marty Shepherd.

Walnut retaliated with a pair of first — inning runs as Jeff Dill opened things up with a single but was cut down attempting to steal. Craig Anderson walked and moved to second on a pass ball. Following a fly out, Paul Kline drew a free pass putting runners on first and second. Dan Smith then unleashed a wild pitch advancing both runners 90-feet. Bob Veselic cleared the bases with a triple to center field and was cut down at the plate while trying to stretch it into an inside-the- park home run.

Walnut's starting pitcher, Paul Kline, yielded the tying run in the third frame after the first two men had been retired.

Jeff Cox walked, John Beckwith singled to center, and Smith drove home Cox with a single.

WC kicked up some dust in the fourth after two men had been retired as Greg Frank and Marshall singled but Marshall was picked off first base to end the threat.

Veselic replaced Kinne on the mound in the fifth frame after Kline opened the inning by walking Gary Frankiel. Veselic got Cox to hit into a double play and Beckwith was retired on a fly to left. Veselic hurled the final two frames issuing only a harmless walk.

Thursday's Game
West Covina CM 2, Walnut CM 2

Smith, West Covina's starter was in hot water in every inning except the third. In the fifth, he walked the leadoff hitter Steve Reinhardt who advanced to third when an attempted pick off went awry. Following a strikeout, Jeff Dill attempted a squeeze bunt but Reinhardt was cut down at home from Smith to catcher Greg Frank. Al Sanchez then replaced Smith and got out of the inning without any damage.

Walnut's sixth frame was totally disastrous as they were retired one-two-three despite a walk and a single. Kline drew the free pass and advanced to third when Veselic's attempted sacrifice was booted by first baseman Frankiel. Bob Salas was then asked to squeeze home Kline but the suicide failed when Salas missed the ball leaving Kline hung up between third and home. Just as Kline was being tagged out by the West Covina Catcher, Veselic had rounded second base and fell down. Frank fired to shortstop Beckwith who applied the double play tag on Veselic. Salas followed with a pop-out to second base.

Walnut's seventh proved just as disappointing as Mark Canavan and Jeff Dill started a small fire after two men were out. Canavan singled and Dill walked setting the stage for Randy Swartwood's line-single to left. But Marshall charged the ball and came up firing a strike to cut-off man Tudie Holman (third baseman) who fired a strike to the catcher nailing Canavan at the plate to end the game.

Walnut's moundsmen, Kline and Veselic, held WC to just-four hits and two runs while the West Covina hurlers, Smith and Sanchez, checked Walnut on six safeties. Both sides were guilty of five walks.

"I guess I blew it on two occasions," said Murphy, who has coached Walnut High's junior varsity club to two titles and a second place finish in his three-year stint. "I shouldn't have tried that suicide squeeze in the sixth and I felt, who knows what the chances are of getting three straight hits with two out (in the seventh)."

Walnut resumes SGV play Saturday when it plays Claremont Connie Back in a 3 p.m. game at Pomona College.

Montclair blitzes Redlands

MONTCLAIR — Montclair's American Legion baseball team racked up five runs in the first two innings and then Dale Biggs ripped a three-run home run in the four-run fourth inning to pace the hosts to a convincing 13-1 victory over Redlands Thursday afternoon at Montclair High.

Montclair pitcher Bruce Richardson hurled a one-hitter, which came in the fifth, but his shutout was spoiled when Redlands scored without a hit in the second inning.

Mike Wolters, who doubled twice in the game, was Montclair's leading hitter — going three-for-three with two RBI's.

Montclair will face Upland Legion at Memorial Park tonight at 8 p.m.

Stan Smith bows out in France

PARIS (UPI) — America's Stan Smith, top seeded player in the $150,000 French Open Tennis Tournament went down to defeat today, losing to Holland's Tom Okker in a seesaw five-set match continued from Thursday.

Okker countered the tall American's net play with a game of tireless retrieving and won 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 3-6, 6-4.

Smith of Seapines S.C., added to his own downfall by double faulting three times in the final game.

Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the only American still in the women's singles, got by West Germany's Helga Masthoff 6-3, 6-3, to gain the semi-finals.

Smith resumed play, halted by rain Thursday, leading Okker 2-1 in the fourth set. The rangey American found trouble keeping his fast first serve in and let Okker work back to 3-3.

Then the former American Army private brought his formidable forehand into account and swept the next three games to win the set and put him 2-2 in sets with Okker.

But Okker showed why he was once called the "flying Dutchman". Retrieving smashes and deep backhands, Okker, seeded 16th, foiled Smith's net game with crosscourt passing shots and drop shots that just cleared the net to lead 3-1. Smith came back making it 5-4 for Okker, but Okker with the help of two double faults by Smith obtained two match points. Smashing nicely, from the service line, Smith fought back to survive but on the third match point, he double faulted a third time to end it.

Miss Evert resumed play, leading Miss Masthoff 1-0 in the first set. Playing her typical baseline game, the 19-year-old Floridian streaked to 6-3 without any trouble.

The second set was tighter but Miss Masthoff's deliberate, unaggressive ground strokes were little match for Miss Evert's double-handed backhand drives that hit within a foot of the sidelines.

Weiskopf's 65 leads field

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf, after "playing about as well as I ever have" for a seven-under 65 that tied the course record Thursday, still had his work cut out for him as he headed into today's second round of the Kemper Open golf tournament.

Hard-driving Lanny Wadkins, in fourth place, one slot ahead of Weiskopf on the money list for this year's tour, was only one stroke back at 66.

Both players had seven birdies Thursday, but Wadkins bogeyed the par 3, 197-yard No. 13 hole to keep him at six-under and leave Weiskopf alone as first round leader.

Five less well known golfers were grouped at 67 after the first round, which saw 60 players break par and another 24 equal it on the 7,219-yard, par 72 Quail Hollow Country Club course. They were Bert Greene, Ken Still, Patrick Fitzsimons, Mac McLendon and Leonard Thompson.

Arnold Palmer and Bruce Crampton, winner of three tournaments and second to idle Jack Nicklaus on the money list this year, both carded 68s Thursday, as did five others. Nine men, including veteran Sam Snead, were bunched at 69, three under par.

Babe Hiskey earned $5,000 Thursday by sinking a hole-in-one for the fourth time in his career. He made the shot with an eight-iron on the 151-yard par 3, No. 2 hole. But he managed only a 71 for the round.

Weiskopf, who won the 1971 Kemper and this year's Colonial Invitational, said he had felt out of shape and didn't expect to do as well as he did.

"I didn't get a decent night's sleep the last week," he said, explaining that his two children had been ill. "Maybe I should play this way all the time."

The 6-foot-3 Ohio native, hitting powerful drives, toured the front nine with four birdies —on holes 2, 4, 5 and 7—then had birdies on 13, 14 and the 599-yard, par-5 No. 15.

Wadkins drove 16 greens, then "putted pretty well" for his 66.

"The course is so long you could have a 68 and be okay," he said. Winner of this year's Byron Nelson Classic, Wadkins said he returned from two weeks off the tour "a better player, a little stronger, a little more alive."

Lee Trevino, an early favorite and No. 3 money winner this year, managed only a 70 Thursday, saying he let the round "get away from me" with two bogeys.

"It could have been better, but it could have been worse," he said.

Palmer, returning from almost a month off the tour, said his 68 "wasn't an outstandingly good round, but from a personal standpoint it was encouraging."

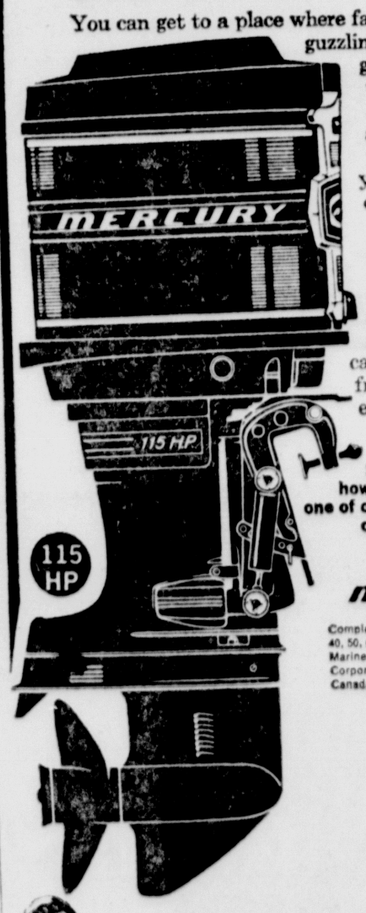

The run of good scores Thursday was helped by nearly ideal weather—clear skies, a mild wind and temperatures of around 80.

Despite his leading score, Weiskopf said he felt the course "gets tougher every year.

Topwater advice for bass fishing

CHICAGO (UPI) — The largemouth bass fisherman who hasn't resorted to topwater fishing techniques, hasn't lived.

Those who have probably would be quick to agree that others have been missing out on some of the most exciting action the sport has to offer.

Without a doubt, the most thrilling moment in bass fishing lodes when ole Mr. Bucketmouth savagely smashes a skimming surface plug or slurps in a twitching bass bug.

What usually prevents novices from trying surface baits— whether they are presented at the end of a fly rod, spinning or casting outfit—is they don't know when to go topwater.

The best time of year for such action is the spring spawning season, but in extremely shallow lakes, surface action can be found year around.

When water temperatures hit the 65-70 degree mark, it's time to go on top. Best times of the day are early morning or in the evening, but on an overcast day, topwater lures can be successful anytime.

Regardless of the type of rod or reel they are using, topwater men all have one thing in common—they are appealing to bass in shallow water where good cover is available.

With the dozens of choices of surface lures on the market, it's easy to see where the novice can become confused. However, water conditions play an important role in selection of lures by topwater bassmen.

When the water is calm and clear, topwater experts tend to choose lures that make less noise, such as fly rod popping bugs tied from deer hair. If the water surface is rippled or the water murky, they tend to go with noisier surface baits, such as floating plugs rigged with propellers.

However, those are general rules and there are exceptions that come from experience. For instance, it may take a noisy lure to anger a lunker bass into striking even under the clearest conditions.

But generally, noisy lures tend to spook bass in clear water.

The light conditions often make a difference in the size of the surface bait being used. Many experts advise using smaller surface baits when the light is bright, and bigger ones under dim lighting conditions.

Early morning and late afternoon periods usually are best for topwater fishing because bass can be found feeding near shore.

But during an overcast day, the bass' normal routine is interrupted, and it may feed for longer periods, often offering good topwater action throughout the day.

When working surface baits, anglers should cast past the shady side of stumps, trees, brush or other likely bass cover. Bass will stay in the shade of such objects for protection. Often, bass can be found in weed beds, under stream banks and cliff ledges when the sun is noon-high and other cover offers little protection.

Hunt regulations adopted

SACRAMENTO—The California Fish and Game Commission followed its announced script closely in adopting 1973-74 hunting regulations, but there were some unexpected changes. The regulations are effective July 1.

Commissioners decided to continue the limit on quail in the desert area of Southern California at six per day and six in possession. It had been proposed to increase the limit to 10 and 10 as it will be in the remainder of the state.

The spring turkey season was advanced to April 13-28. The commission had leaned to April 27-May 12.

Also, the commission reverted to the Department of Fish and Game's original proposal for adding counties to the spring and fall turkey hunts.

Fresno and the balance of Kern and Tulare counties will be added open area during the fall turkey season, bringing to 15 the number of counties included.

Nine counties will be added to the open area for the 1974 spring turkey hunt, increasing the total to 23. Additions would be Alpine, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, El Dorado, Lake, Mendocino, Placer and Santa Clara.

Otherwise the commissioners adhered to the previously announced determinations:

— To add the counties of Ventura, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and San Bernardino to the Oct. 13, 1973-Jan. 1, 1974 bear season.

— To set a Sept. 1 Jan. 31 season for jackrabbits and cottontail rabbits in Southern California's desert area. (There is now a year-around season on jackrabbits throughout the state.)

— To lop a week off the early deer season. It will close on Sept. 16 rather than Sept. 23.

— To permit Southern as well as Northern California hunters to possess four pheasants after opening day.

— To reduce the sage grouse limit from two to one.

— To eliminate the closed season and season limit on pigs in Monterey County. Statewide, the season is now open throughout the year and the bag limit is one per day and one in possession.

Laguna Beach Ecological Reserve set

SACRAMENTO — Nearly half of the Laguna Beach Marine Life Refuge has been established as an ecological reserve by the State Fish and Game Commission.

At its meeting here May 25, the commission adopted regulations setting aside 800 yards of shoreline and adjacent waters as Heisler Park Ecological Reserve.

The regulations permit use of the area by swimmers, skin divers and the general public on a "look, but don't touch" basis.

Taking of fish for sport, commercial or any other purpose is prohibited except by permit from the Fish and Game Commission. Swimming, boating and other aquatic sports are permitted except that such activity shall not involve the taking of marine plants, marine life, geological formations or archaeological artifacts. Boats may be launched and retrieved only in designated areas and may be anchored within the reserve only during daylight hours.

In contrast, fishing is permitted in the remainder of the Laguna Beach Marine Life Refuge. License holders may take abalone, lobster, bonito, rockfish, mackerel, perch, kelp bass, sand bass, spotted bass, corbina, croaker and halibut. All other fish and forms of aquatic life are protected and may not be taken without a written permit from the Department of Fish and Game.

The Laguna Beach Marine Life Refuge extends 1,900 yards along the Laguna Beach shoreline and seaward for a distance of 200 yards.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pepper Rodgers, grid coach of UCLA, a spectacular player in his college days at Georgia Tech, reports the Royal Crown sports bureau. As a quarterback Rodgers led teams to victories in the Orange Bowl in 1952 and the Sugar Bowl in 1953 and 1954. In the latter game he threw three touchdown passes and kicked a field goal.

Sabres sign 1st round draftee

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Sabres announced Thursday the signing of left-winger Morris Titanic, their first-round draft choice, to a multi-year contract.

Titanic, who played with the Sudbury (Ont.) Wolves last season, scored 61 goals and had 63 assists. A native of Toronto, he currently lives in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Titanic's attorney, Bob Woolf, said the Quebec Nordiques of the rival World Hockey Association made "a very good effort' to sign him, but "Morris indicated to me he wanted to go to an NHL club."

SMASHING WEEKEND — Big is about the only way to describe the three-day Memorial Day weekend action at Hollywood Park.

While the three-day attendance total of 126,087 was just under Hollypark's all-time record, the mutuel handle total of $13,031,306 was well above the standard for three days.

Not only were the people and dollar counts impressive, but so were the purses.

More than $200,000 was offered in purses on Monday, with approximately half of that total coming from the $110,300 Californian. The entire nine-race card averaged $23,033.

And, the Memorial Day throng also witnessed more than 10 miles of racing, since every race on the program was carded around two turns, the shortest race at one mile and the longest at a mile and one-half.

WEIGHT WATCHERS SCORE — The Hollywood Park 'weight watchers' weren't among the thousands who backed Cougar 2nd down to an odds-on favorite in Sunday's Hollywood Invitational.

Cougar has never won with more than 128 pounds, they recalled, and for the third time, they proved wise prophets.

The Big 'Cat carried 129 pounds in the 1972 Invitational, and finished third while in the 1971 Sunset Handicap Cougar toted 130 pounds and fisnished second.

Sunday, he was third under top impost of 130 pounds.

SHAM TO RETURN? — Jockey Laffit Pincay reports that the latest plans for Sigmund Sommer's three-year-old star Sham call for the colt to race in the $100,000 Hollywood Derby July 15.

Sham's most pressing business, however, is trying to upset Secretariat in the upcoming Belmont Stakes.

At the moment, Sham's most serious local Derby threat would be Groshawk.

DOUBLE DUTY — Jockey Danny Cardoza, 23-year-old apprentice from Northern California, will have a week on the sidelines to savor his first victory aboard a thoroughbred.

Cardoza, well known in quarterhorse circles, clicked for the first time on a thoroughbred last Sunday at Hollywood Park, directing Perpetual to a $24 upset in the ninth race.

Danny, however, drew a five-day riding suspension the day before for careless riding at the Bay Meadows quarterhorse meeting and won't return when he does next Saturday.

But, when he does get back in the saddle, he'll have double duty. Cardoza is scheduled to ride Say Prince in the Sutter Stakes at Golden Gate in the afternoon, and then has a mount in the $100,000 quarterhorse futurity that night at Bay Meadows.

MEXICO SPEEDSTER — Owner-trainer Bobby Mitchell and his partner, Gil Wiener, have reached all the way to Mexico City for a prospective two-year-old filly star.

At Mexico City's Hipodromo, she won the only two starts of her career, the last an eight-length romp in :58 3-5. Jockey Alvaro Pineda, who knows the Hipodromo well, estimates that the Mexico City track is a good second slower than Hollywood Park's surface.

While Roman Combo isn't staked at Hollywood Park, if she races to what her owners feel is her real potential, she may be supplemented for $5,000 to the Hollywood Lassie Stakes, attempting to emulate the fete of Bold Liz a year ago.

GOLD CUP SWEEPSTAKES — Hollywood Park has scheduled its second $15,000 sweepstakes of the 1973 meeting on Sunday, June 24, in conjunction with the $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup.

Hollypark's first sweepstakes, held on the Kentucky Derby, resulted in a crowd of 45,111 — largest of the season to date.

The Gold Cup Sweepstakes will offer first prize of $10,000, with $1,500 to second, $1,000 for third, $500 for fourth and $250 each for the fifth through 12th place finishers.

Fans must pick the winner of the Gold Cup and then have his or her name drawn to collect the first prize money.

Wilbur Wood can win 45 this year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilbur Wood heads into the month of June with the best chance for winning 30 games in a season of any pitcher in decades —if he can withstand the pressure that will follow him "all the way to the washroom."

The quote comes from Denny McLain, the only man in nearly 40 years to win 30 games in one season in the majors, who says he doesn't think there's any question that Wood will join him in that exclusive club.

"Heck," says McLain, who now pitches for the Iowa Oaks in the American Association, "he has a chance to win 45 at the rate he's going.

"The pressure of attaining 30 will likely get to him pretty soon and reporters will chase him all the way into the washroom about how he feels," says McLain. "But if he manages to overcome that and get enough rest, I'm positive he can do it."

One thing is certain with the season less than two months old. Wood, baseball's modern "iron man" pitcher, has a better chance at a comparable stage of the season to win 30 than McLain did.

After less than two months, Wood is already nearly a month ahead of the pace McLain set when he won 31 in 1968. Wood, who pitched 131 2-3 innings in April and May, finished May with 13 victories compared to only eight for McLain.

But even though some people, like McLain, talk as if Wood already is assured of joining the 30-game club, it's hardly the case at all.

Fast starters have fallen short of records before and no one is more vulnerable than a starting pitcher who can run out of victories from a tired arm, a lack of batting support or general poor team play behind him.

This hasn't happened to Wood yet but it did happen to the last man to threaten the 30 mark— Oakland's Vida Blue two years ago—and Blue knows what problems Wood is going to face.

"Wilbur has to worry about people worrying the hell out of him," says Blue, who had a 16-2 record on June 25, 1971, and was only 8-6 the rest of the season.

"Regardless of what the team does, fans will always expect a shutout from him and a win," Blue went on. "I don't want to go through that again.

"Late that year, some writer figured out I didn't have enough starts left to win 30 and it was a big relief. I could just go out and pitch."

Blue says Wood will want to win his "30 and get it over with, but when you win 30 somebody will want you to win 40."

Johnny Sain, the Chicago pitching coach who set up Wood's burdensome workload two years ago, thinks Wood can handle the pressure and the work because "he's a wellbalanced person," but Sain refuses to predict how many games the White Sox knuckleball ace will win.

"He can pitch well enough to win 30 and not win 30," Sain observes. "But when a man is having a successful year, it seems like the club rises up behind him. Last year, when he didn't win any games at the end of the season, a lot of people were ready to condemn our system and said he was losing it and was washed up from pitching so much. Now they're on the bandwagon again."

Wood won 24 games a year ago, when he pitched 377 innings, but did not win a game after Sept. 7, although Sain says, 'he pitched well enough to win two or three of those games at the end."

McLain says even a knuckleball pitcher like Wood can't continue to pitch on two or three days rest all summer and not get tired —"He's going to need rest this summer if he's going to keep at the pace he's going now," McLain says —but Sain disputes that.

"There's no way anybody could tell him to pitch with two days rest, pitch as often as he's doing, or to do what he did Monday (win two games in one night)," Sain says. "But he (Wood) wants to do that and he believes he can. Endurance is not a problem with him."

"One thing is for sure," adds Blue. "He'll have enough starts."

U.S., Japan stars play baseball series

LOS ANGELES — Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, has accepted an invitation to attend the opening game of the 2nd annual Japan-USA College Baseball Championship Series June 22 in Dodger Stadium.

The United States collegiate all-stars, the nucleus of which will be USC's defending national champion Trojans, face Japan's top collegiate stars in a seven-game series between June 22 and July 1.

Four of the games will be played in the Los Angeles area as part of doubleheaders with the Dodgers and Angels, while the other three games are scheduled for Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha, Nebraska.

Trojan coach Rod Dedeaux has been named Chairman of the series by the sponsoring United States Baseball Federation. Dedeaux will also coach the United States team.

The series' first two games will be played at Dodger Stadium on June 22 and June 24. On the same dates the Dodgers play Cincinnati and a $2.50 ticket is good for both the collegiate and the major league game.

After three games in Omaha (June 25, 26 and 27), the series returns to Southern California for games six and seven on June 29 and July 1 at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels meet Minnesota on the same dates and, again, a $2.50 ticket is good for both the collegiate game and major lague game.

Tickets for any or all of the games to be played in Southern California may be ordered by mail by writing to the Dodgers, P.O. Box 100, Los Angeles 90051 or Angels, P.O. Box 3820, Anahiem 92803.

Please specify on your applications or envelope "Japan-USA Series" as proceeds from those tickets will be used to defray expenses of bringing the Japanese All-Stars to the United States and to perpetuate the series.

Japan won last year's opening series five games to two.

Olivares prepares for Chacon tiff

INGLEWOOD — Ruben Olivares, the hardest hitting bantamweight champion in ring history, opens local training drills today at the Elk's Building gym for his 12-rounder with Bobby Chacon at The Forum June 23.

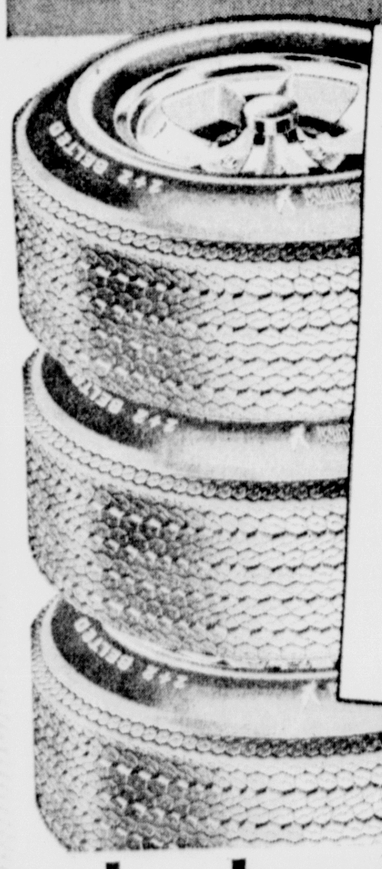

Now campaigning as a featherweight, the 26-year-old Olivares has compiled an amazing record of 64 knockouts out of 68 winning efforts.

Chacon, who is 21, has a perfect slate of 19 wins, 17 by knockout. The Cal State Northridge student will also drill at the Elk's, opening camp there on Saturday.

All seats are reserved for this non-televised card. They are priced at $25, $20, $15, $10 and $7.50, and are available at The Forum, Elk's Building, Ticketron and Broadway, Sear's and May Co. stores.

Now! Red Tag Days on Shell tires!

Great values on three styles – including the best tire that Shell has ever offered

Announcing a steel belted radial from Shell.

Three years back, Shell's engineers set down such stiff performance specifications for a new tire that the standards sounded impossible to achieve.

The engineers' goal: to come out with a steel radial second to none – anywhere. Today, they're satisfied. They got what they wanted. Here are some of the specifications.

• Two radial plies of strong, resilient polyester cord running from bead to bead for superior radial ride and steering response.

• Two steel cord belts under the tread for extra sure-footed traction and great resistance to road hazards.

• A rugged tread design for good performance on all kinds of roads: rutted, smooth, wet, dry, snowy, muddy, hot.

The first advantage you'll notice from the driver's seat is that you're getting quicker response, more positive control. And a comfortable ride as well.

But that's not all. The Super Shell® Steel Radial has less rolling resistance than conventional bias tires. This means less wasted horsepower which should lead to better gasoline mileage.

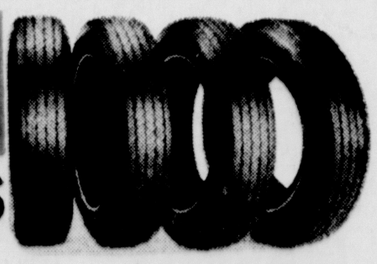

The mileage you get from Shell's radials will depend, of course, entirely on when, where, and how you drive. But tires we tested on a city-suburban test course logged over 40,000 miles – with good tread still left on them.

The Super Shell® Steel Radial is our top performer.

Normally it's an excellent buy. But now, during Red Tag Days, it's an extraordinary buy.

See a participating Shell dealer now for more facts about the Super Shell® Steel Radial.

LOBO, popular recording artist, will star in Disneyland's first Date Nite of the season, performing on the Tomorrowland Stage at 9 and 11 p.m. Saturday. With him will be the Heywoods.

Song recital scheduled in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Soprano Georgia Warden and baritone Donald Bowers will present a song recital at the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational, at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. Pianist Margery Briggs will be accompanist.

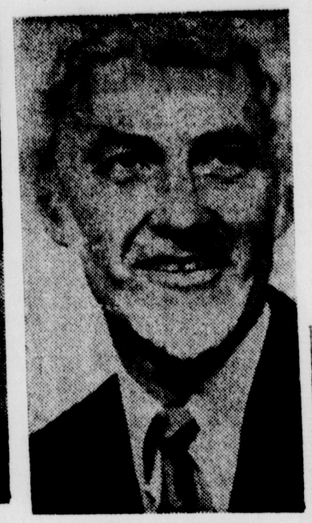

Mrs. Warden will sing Mozart's "Exultate Jubilate" and Bowers will sing Schumann's "Liederkreis," Op. 39. Together they will sing five selections from Mahler's "Des Knaben Wunderhorn."

Mrs. Warden has sung with the San Francisco Opera Company and the Stanford University Summer Opera Company. She is soloist with the Louis Ronfeldt Chorale and in the church's Chancel Choir.

Bowers, also a soloist at the church and with the Ronfeldt chorus, is choral director at Alta Loma High School. He has sung leading roles in West End Opera productions of "La Traviata," "La Boheme," and "Cavalleria Rusticana," and with Citrus Community Opera and Gallery Theater in Ontario.

Choral groups set concert at Citrus

AZUSA — The Citrus College Chamber Singers, Concert Choir and Chamber Chorale will present a concert in the college auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $2, students $1.

Ben Bollinger, director of choral music, will conduct numbers by the Chamber Singers and Concert Choir, with Peter Strobl as student director. The chamber Chorale will appear under the direction of Don Brinegar.

The post-intermission segment of the program will be presented by the Chamber Singers. Soloists will be Jan Williams, Shirley Tennant, Bud Nease, Donna Lawrence, Joan Manners, Chris Holder, Joanne Gilbreath, Marci Wilson, Jane Moore and Janice Bollinger.

MONTCLAIR — Twenty-two piano students of Violet Bouillon will present a recital at the Bauer-Baldwin Piano and Organ Store, 4727 Holt Ave., at 2 p.m. Sunday.

They are Renee and Brad Randall, Laura and Kari Gatewood, Lianne, Neill and Robyn Mizoguchi, Melissa LeBlanc, Susan Chong, Anne Miller, Susan Bergmann, Elaine Gallegos, Kathleen Steele, Jill Mattier, Lisa Schiewe, Pamela Weidner, Sally Girvin, Holly Peterson, Cindy and Elliot Omiya, Rod Ritner and Cindy Turpen.

Certificates of award and composer statuettes will be presented after the program. The public is invited.

Marauding mountain lion eludes capture

NAPA (UPI) — A mountain lion that reportedly has killed 42 sheep has eluded capture southeast of here, according to the state Department of Fish and Game.

One of the marauder's kills occurred within 50 yards of a ranch house.

Paul Revere's ride took place April 18, 1775.

U.S. ships get repairs in Japan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Repair facilities at a shipyard in Japan are being expanded by the Defense Department to handle work that could be done at the Hunters Point Naval Shipyard in San Francisco, according to Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

The pentagon said last month it is closing the San Francisco yard.

Tunney said Thursday the carrier Midway has had its home port shifted to Yokosuka, Japan from Alameda, Calif.

To provide repairs for the Midway and other ships, Tunney said. the Navy plans to expand the naval ship repair facility at Yokosuka.

Tunney said the transfer was an example of what appeared to be a Pentagon decision to transfer work to foreign bases "to take advantage of cheaper labor costs."

William Pitt the Younger was 24 years old when he became prime minister of Great Britain, the youngest man ever to hold that post.

Nixon steps into waters of Euopean summit talk

REYKJAVIK UPI) — President Nixon has taken one small step toward his goal of a mass summit meeting with 14 European nations.

But an ocean of European misgivings still lies between Nixon and that goal. French diplomats said that, as of now, the odds are still against the meeting ever taking place.

AN ANALYSIS

The small step came Thursday when Nixon persuaded French President Georges Pompidou, in private talks here, to abandon his previous flat opposition to a mass summit and instead explore the idea in a series of French-American meetings between now and the autumn, when Nixon is to make his "grand tour" of Europe.

According to the American plan, Nixon would meet separately with the leaders of Britain, France, West Germany and Italy in their capitals. Then he would sit down, possibly in Brussels, with the chiefs of state of the European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO) and the European Common Market—14 countries in all.

As Nixon's aides explain it, this would have several advantages.

It would enable Nixon to get general European approval for a "declaration of principles" on which the Western alliance should be based in the future. It would re-establish America's place in European decisionmaking.

And not incidentally, it would be a gaudy foreign policy show, stealing all headlines from Watergate and other domestic problems.

But the Europeans, particularly the French, are not at all sure that they want America's place in European decisionmaking to be re-established.

And European leaders, already bruised by what they feel are American rough tactics in recent troop and money negotiations, are wary of endorsing any "declaration of principles" without a close look first at the fine print.

Most important, Pompidou and others fear that the sight of Europeans rallying around to parley with Nixon would reemphasize America's dominant role, and might give Nixon a chance to link economic matters with defense. This is anathema to most Europeans.

L.A. man on French wine tour 'boomed'

PARIS (UPI) — A sonic boom from U.S. jets performing in formation at the Paris Air Show Thursday made a minor casualtty of a bus carrying 25 sightseeing Los Angeles executives.

The executives were en route to the champagne country on a wine-tasting tour led by Bob Balzer, food and wine editor of the Los Angeles Times home magazine.

As the bus passed Le Bourget Airport, site of the air show, the sonic boom from the jets shattered windshields of the bus and of other buses and cars in the vicinity, Balzer said.

Balzer and the bus driver received facial cuts from flying glass, but others on the tour were uninjured.

In 1610 the astronomer Kepler predicted that Mars had two moons. Both miniscule, they were not discovered until 1877 by Asaph Hall at the United States Naval Observatory in Washington, D. C.

Answers to Previous Puzzle

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 2

Your birthday today: Sets off a sustained effort to widen your personal horizons. By year's end you will have entered into a markedly different life style. Material affairs prosper, relationships evolve rapidly. Today's natives have an interest in studies involving time and distance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Conserve energy by staying aloof from loose talk. Exercise and chores work off tension. Meditation helps.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Expect much temperament — let it flare without making it a lasting issue. Creative efforts have a touch of macabre humor.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get about very early. There's news to fit into your views. Gather friends for a party. Watch expenses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): All things happen piecemeal today. Young people attract much notice. Take initiative on this complex day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Let others pursue their specialties while you catch up on personal details such a budget balacning, letter writing, etc.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Routine activity expands briskly. It's a fine day for medical or dental check-ups. Personal touches are needed in valued relationships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Find time for a review of recent progress, giving thought to change. Exert no more personal authority than need be.

SCORPIO Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Philosophic attitudes provide channels for expressing creativity. Travel plans are favored, if not the travel itself. Show loved ones you care.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A great day for reconciling differences — put in a good word for your beliefs. Shared hobbies offer pleasure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. .2-Jan. 19): It's best to go out today. You need the stimulation of varied interests. Decisions come during discussions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Much of what you thought was settled comes apart this weekend. No cause for panic — learn from the experience.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Leave your funds in their accounts. Creative talents influence you. Home life improves.

Take a tip from a traveler

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

As my vacation drew nearer, I searched eagerly for some knowledgeable Tips on Travel, some authoritative list of Ten Ways To Pack a Suitcase, or How To Get There Without Losing Your Shirt.

I felt I had reached my goal when I spotted "How To Travel Light and Still Look Like a Million," by Rosalyn Abrevaya, women's editor of Family Weekly. Look like a million what? When I travel, heavy or light, I look like a million bums.

For the past 20 years, my vacation embarkation point was a long list that started with tent, sleeping bags, air mattress, ax and first aid kit. Ms. Abrevaya obviously has a different kind of vacation in mind for me. Her chatter was all of silver or gold kid pumps for evening, and zippy tennis whites in wrinkle-free Quintess polyester.

"Ruthlessly limit yourself to one suitcase," she urged. That was simple because my entire wardrobe, including my gold pumps, will easily fit in one suitcase. Furthermore, I only HAVE one suitcase. So far so good.

Now Madame Editor suggests that I divide my travel wardrobe into three groups, A, B and C, then eliminate C (least favorite) and readjust the B's into A's or C's. I conquered by A-B-C's by making everything A—the two suits, four shirts, three ties and my zippy tennis whites in wrinkle-free Quintess polyester. I'll look like a million something, but I'm not sure what. I'll probably be arrested.

Upon arriving at hotel or motel, La Abrevaya suggests you dispose your things "at their point of usage": toiletries in the bathroom, slippers by the bed, clothing in the closet. Well, I swan! Who would ever have thought of that? That's the kind of special technique that comes only to veteran travelers. I have been in the habit of putting my shaving kit under the bed and my slippers in the bathroom sink. My clothes I usually hang in the shower, but now my eyes have been opened to a far, far better thing to do.

Other red-hot Tips for Tourists included the admonition to take along a raincoat, make accessories do double-duty, whatever that may mean, and take a wrap for air-conditioned restaurants and theaters. (I'm not taking a wrap for anyone!)

Well, I guess Ms. Abrevaya aimed her little article at wealthy women, and since I am neither, I'll stick to my old habit of throwing into the suitcase anything I see and hope for the best. She jets all over the world every year. With my "vacation savings" currently in an irom lung and failing fast, I'll be lucky to get to La Puente.

Bridge

Spot for 2nd hand high

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's five club call was one of those all-purpose preempts. He didn't know what could make what, but he knew that he couldn't be hurt much at five clubs.

West's double was also all-purpose. He rather hoped that his partner would be able to find a bid, but expected to beat the five club contract in any event.

Actually East-West can make four hearts and not five and while they can beat five clubs they failed to do so.

South put it right up to East at trick two and East did not rise to the occasion.

South won the first trick with the ace of hearts and discarded his two of spades. Then he led a low spade from dummy and right here is where East failed to rise. He played second hand low. South's 10 lost to West's jack.

West led a second heart.

South ruffled; cashed one high trump; led his last spade to dummy's ace; ruffed a spade; entered dummy with the nine of trumps and was able to discard one diamond on the last spade.

Should East have gone up with his queen of spades? It would have been a tough play to make, but we feel that he might well have made it if he had been really alert.

Togetherness dulls cheetah mating urge

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Two experts on the love lives of cheetahs report they get too much togetherness in zoos to mate. Dr. Richard Smith, behaviorial psychologist at the University of Utah, is helping build an 8,000-square-foot run designed to heighten interest in sex.

Smith said the cheetah, which has been declared an endangered species with 10,000 of the cats left in the world, has only produced 20 offspring in captivity, because the female is accustomed to spending much of her life isolated from males.

In zoos, the males and females are usually kept close together and their instinctive "romantic" patterns don't develop, he said. A zoo official said the female must be exposed to males engaged in aggressive behavior—a "power struggle" for dominance—after isolation before she is ready for breeding.

Don't put out fire, put out the water!

PATERSON N.J. (UPI) — When firemen responded to a woman's demand for a fire engine Tuesday they found that she wanted them to pump out her 1,600-pound waterbed so she could get rid of it.

"She found it uncomfortable," said a spokesman for the department, which refused the request.

Tax dependents become taxpayers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax deductible donations can help reduce the welfare roles, according to Robert Watkins, executive vice president of Goodwill Industries.

Contributions, totaling $12 million in 1972 enabled the organization to generate an income of $122 million from sales of materials, contract work and fees for services. This income helped turn tax dependents into taxpayers by producing facilities to provide employment and wage-earning potential for handicapped people who might otherwise be unemployable.

Bus winks make for uneasy rider

Dear Ele and Walt: I believe in people doing their own thing and living their own life-styles. But I recently had a very bad experience with some homosexuals, and I hope you will print my letter and comment upon it.

I got on a bus and sat down in the back opposite these three guys. They were dressed up to be very noticeable and talked very loudly. They also wore eye shadow and women's jewelry. I didn't stare, but they winked at me, and then started discussing my looks and my body just as though I were deaf, and couldn't hear them.

This was very embarrassing, but I didn't want to show that it bothered me so I stayed right there until I got off at my stop. When I did, they called out the window to me and made me feel very awkward. Isn't this rude, and how should I have handled it? — Ray

Dear Ray: You experienced exactly the sort of ill-treatment women have endured for years at the whim of straight men.

Having felt this embarrassment, we trust you'll never subject another person to such treatment.

As for your tormentors, they were out of line and should have been talked to. Dialogue: "Did I do something to make you feel put down? Is that why you're embarrassing me? You can't expect your behavior will make me feel friendly towards you."

But such comments cannot be yelled across a bus aisle. You'd have to sit with the guys and that might be hard to do when there were three to your one. If it seemed too spooky to be outnumbered by the rudies, you'd have been wiser to move out of earshot than to try to play deaf. — Ele and Walt

Dear Walt: My housemate is into meditation and sits in trances for an hour each morning and another hour each evening. He has never said we have to be silent or anything, but no one plays the radio or talks very loudy when he is doing this because it doesn't seem right.

Lately I have come to resent this and want to talk with him. But first I'd like an expert's advice as to whether it has to be dead silent for someone to mediate or not. — Freddy

Dear Freddy: My own meditation is very casual and rather easily disturbed. For that reason I choose times when neither phone nor company is likely to interfere.

Let your housemate know that you feel surpressed by his silence and see what he has to say. If he is also a fragile meditator, he might well rearrange his schedule to be home when the rest of you are out.— Walt

Dear Ele: This one boy calls me at least three times a week to ask me out. I don't make any phony excuses, but just say "no thank you." He always says, "OK, but I'm going to keep trying." How can I convince him it's hopeless? I don't enjoy turning him down all the time, but I'd never want to date him. — Nan

Dear Nan: This isn't a message to dispatch over the phone. Arrange to see him in some semipublic place (the library veranda, the museum courtyard, etc.).

Once you're face to face tell week. Please take this as my all-time 'no.' I do not intend to go out with you — period. It's nothing against you, it's must my chemistry."

If he phones after that, tell him you'll chat as long as he doesn't have an invitation up his sleeve. — Ele

Pick a Plymouth

Pick a Winner!
Bob Barker says:
I've talked to Plymouth owners all over. And believe me, they're really sold on Plymouth. No wonder. Just look at the value your Chrysler-Plymouth Dealer offers. For price people there's the Plymouth Duster...the hottest selling compact in Southern California. For particular people there's the great Plymouth Satellite. And for proud people, Plymouth Fury is the pick of the big ones. It's a winning combination!

PLYMOUTH DUSTER—Larry Nassamar says "We got a lot more for our money and we looked at 'em all. Duster is the best car I ever owned." Thousands of Chrysler-Plymouth people like Mr. Nassamar have made Plymouth Duster the top selling compact in Southern California.
PLYMOUTH FURY—Fred Schwartz says "I'm very pleased with my mileage. I've got extra power for emergencies and extra room for comfort. Fury gives you big room...and a lot more, including automatic transmission, power steering and power front disc brakes as standard equipment.
PLYMOUTH SATELLITE—Mrs. Carol Haines says "Satellite is the most comfortable car I've ever owned and it handles so easy I have no problem parallel parking. We like the dealer who sold it to us, too." Particular people pick Satellite because of the great styling and solid Chrysler engineering with Electronic Ignition and torsion smooth ride.
PICK A PLYMOUTH DUSTER.
A sales winner in Southern California.
"More value...more for the money"...that's what people in Southern California are saying about Plymouth Duster. That's why we're number one" in compacts. And that's why you should see your Chrysler-Plymouth Dealer now. You'll get a great deal on Duster. And that's telling it like it is.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Bonita Unified School District of Los Angeles County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as the District, will receive up to, but not later than 10:00 o'clock A.M. at the 12th day of June, 1973, sealed bids for the award of a contract for the manufacture and installation of Modular Buildings on sites of the District. Said Modular Buildings are described generally as follows:

FIVE (5) 24' x 38' MODULAR CLASSROOM UNITS TO BE USED AS CHAPPARAL HIGH SCHOOL AT SAN DIMAS, CALIFORNIA.

All bids shall be made on a Form furnished by the District.

Bids shall be received in the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Business, Bonita Unified School District, 115 West Allen Avenue, San Dimas, California, 91773, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time and place.

Each bid must conform to be responsive to the contract documents, copies of which are now on file and may be obtained in the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Business, Bonita Unified School District at the above stated address or the Architect's office, Cashion-Horie, Architects, 720 North Park Avenue, Pomona, California.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and the list of proposed subcontractors.

Preference will be made in the award for California-made supplies pursuant to Sections 4330 and 4334, inclusive, Government Code.

The District has determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the contract and this Wage Rate Determination is on file in the office of the District at the above stated address.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon the subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all workmen employed by them in the execution of the contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

Bid Date: June 12, 1973.
Dr. James Overin
Assistant Superintendent of Business

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 2753 TURNBULL CANYON ROAD

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on June 12, 1973, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the construction of cement concrete curb, gutter, drives, steps, walks, walls, drainage structures, crushed aggregate base, processed miscellaneous base, select natural base, asphalt concrete pavement, fence work, traffic signal work, together with concrete removal, clearing and grubbing, embankment, excavation, grading, shaping, preparation of subgrade, removal of existing improvements and other incidental and appurtenant work, estimated to cost less than $315,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Dated May 15, 1973.

GENERAL

DON'T LET ME GO INTO FORECLOSURE

I'm only 20 years old with 3 bedrooms and hardwood floors, I'm located in a nice area, and I relocated in a nice area, and I really like my neighbors. My FHA loan can be assumed, I'm vacant, a little soiled but would make the right family a very good home. My present owner has neglected me and has even departed for back East. PLEASE COME RESCUE ME!

FORD MAVERICK – PONTIAC VENTURA

PONTIAC VENTURA Rated No. 1

The Ventura pulled down the number one ranking. The Ventura moved through palsied traffic or along open roads effortlessly while the others seemed to be working on hernias. But more than that, the Ventura is responsive to the driver's needs in a wide range of situations.

The Fundamentalists cannot but approve. The Ventura is poised and taut on its suspension at all times. With a single exhaust the Pontiac surely was the quietest car in the test.

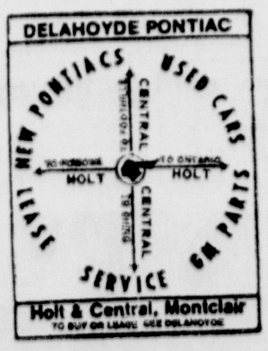

Clearly, the Ventura was chosen for what it feels like to the driver. Considering its performance, driver comfort and general quality, it feels like the most car for the money in this whole group. That makes it the winner. (The above information taken from "Car and Driver.")
